Hunter Names 45, Retains Sewage Plant Head

SOTHERLAND RE-APPOINTED TO CITY POST

Renaming of Republican as Sewage Superintendent Comes as Surprise.

KEEPS 20 OTHER G.O.P.'S

24 of Appointees Democrats; Vacancies on 4 Municipal Boards Yet to Be Filled.

Appointment of 45 persons to city jobs, including the renaming of Paul J. Sotherland, 168 Western avenue, as superintendent of the city's new sewage disposal plant, was announced today by Mayor Claude M. Hunter.

Twenty-one of the appointees who are employed by the city at present are Republicans. The other 24 are Democrats. The appointments practically complete the personnel changes to be made by the new administration.

4 Posts Still Open.

Hunter has yet to fill vacancies on four city boards. Terms of one member on civil service commission, planning commission, recreation board and sinking fund trustees expired on Dec. 31.

Sotherland, a Republican, was chosen as the first head of the $350,000 sewage system by former Mayor Earl A. McFarland.

His re-appointment came more or less as a surprise, as up until a few days ago it was the word in administration circles that he was to be replaced.

Number Eligible Limited.

While the position is not under civil service, the qualifications demanded by the state health department of an appointee to this post, necessarily limited the number eligible for appointment.

Hunter is known to have conferred with state health authorities in the last week regarding the administration of the sewage plant since it was opened early last spring.

The superintendent of the sewage plant as well as others on the plant's personnel are scheduled to be placed under civil service when the present ordinance setting up the number of employes of the department expires March 8.

Three other employes at the plant, all Republicans, were re-

HEADS COMPANY

Switzer Named President of Sun Glow Industries.

William J. Switzer, vice president and treasurer of the Sun Glow Industries, Inc., has become president of the firm, it was announced today.

Switzer, who organized the company 15 years ago and has been general manager, succeeds F. B. Zieg of Fredericktown, who resigned to become chairman of the board of directors.

Clyne Crawford, who has been assistant manager, will take over the post of general manager. He also was elected vice president. Switzer will continue as treasurer

Zieg, who is recuperating from an operation in Florida, remains one of the largest stockholders of the company with which he has been identified since its organization.

Sun Glow which maintains its headquarters in Mansfield, has factories in Fredericktown, Logan and Tippecanoe City, with branch offices in New York City, Chicago and San Francisco.

3 Convicted Robbers Lashed Under Old Delaware Law.

WILMINGTON, Del. —(AP)— Three convicted robbers were lashed today at the public whipping post to which they were sentenced under a Delaware law older than the state itself.

A gallery of 150 men—women are not permitted—witnessed the whippings administered with a cat-o-nine-tails over the prisoners' bare backs.

Since it has been definitely proved, by U. S. embassy officials in Moscow, that the mysterious "Donald L. Robinsons" really are Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Arnold Rubens, and since Mrs. Rubens is an American citizen born near Philadelphia, the U. S. government has requested that the Soviet foreign office provide information as to the fate of Mrs. Rubens. A report from Warsaw stated Mrs. Rubens had been executed by a Russian firing squad in a Moscow prison. (Baseless reports frequently emanate from Warsaw.) No word of Ruben's fate was disclosed.

SEE ROOSEVELT CLARIFY POLICY

Observers Believe Jackson Day Speech Tonight Will Relate to Business

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's Jackson Day dinner speech tonight may clarify administration policy as to future government relations with business.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no hint of what subject he intends to take, but there was speculation that he might decide it was a fitting occasion for further enunciation of his views toward business.

It was recalled that in his message to congress last Monday he said while discussing monopoly.

"The work undertaken by Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson is not finished yet."

The past two weeks admittedly left industrial leaders confused despite the evidence of a conciliatory attitude most observers found in the president's two messages to congress and recent press conference statements.

This uncertainty was attested yesterday by Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and

DELAY INQUEST IN GIRL'S DEATH

Canada Postpones Hearing In Stenographer's Demise.

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont.—(U.P.)—The inquest into the death of Helen Grier, attractive 26-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, was postponed today until Monday.

The hearing started last night under the direction of Crown Attorney J. L. O'Flynn. The inquest had been held up until yesterday to permit Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert, to testify on results of an autopsy.

The stenographer was found slain in a lonely hunting cabin last Oct. 29. A small rifle lay near her body. Vernon Spencer, former New York Giant outfielder, of Wixom, Mich., who had been living with the Grier girl for more than a week, reported finding the body.

ROME 'FREEZES'

Italians Tumble, Cars Collide as Ice Covers Streets.

ROME—(AP)—The Italian capital, unused to freezing weather, awoke today to find its streets glazed with ice and temperatures of 24 degrees, fahrenheit.

Early bus traffic was paralyzed. Many persons were injured by falls on the slippery streets.

Boy, 3, Likes His Cigars

BERLIN, Md —(AP)—Oldtimers who smoke in talkfests around the country store have nothing on 3-year-old John Merlin Brown.

The youngster sat on a box in a store here and puffed a corncob pipe while his mother, Mrs. John Brown, shopped. Explaining her son had smoked since he was 18 months old, she bought him a five-cent cigar to smoke after dinner.

DAVEY SIGNS

New Poor Relief Bill Approved By Governor Today.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—More than $6,800,000 in relief funds was available to Ohio counties today after Gov. Davey, receding from his 50-50 matching stand, signed the Huml bill allocating state sales tax funds on a 2 to 1 basis.

The measure, first major poor aid bill to be enacted since the legislature convened late in November, was signed by leaders of both houses late yesterday, sent to the governor for his signature and filed with the secretary of state.

An emergency bill, it takes effect immediately.

Other legislation pending remained in doubt. The governor refused to say whether he would approve a companion bill levying a .65 per cent excise tax on public utilities and allocating for relief revenues from the amusement and beverage taxes.

COAT CATCHES IN THRESHER, KILLS FARMER

Marion Ebersole, 32, Father of 3, Loses Life in Accident On Farm Near Shelby.

BROTHER SEES TRAGEDY

Victim's Body Whipped About Revolving Shaft While Threshing Soy Beans.

Marion Ebersole, 32, farmer of near Shelby and the father of three small children, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon when his coat became entangled in a machine shaft while he was threshing soy beans on a farm northeast of Shelby.

Ebersole suffered a broken neck and back when his body was whipped around the rapidly revolving shaft, Coroner Hugh C. Winbigler said. The victim's brother, Milo Ebersole, who was working with him, witnessed the tragedy, but was unable to stop the tractor in time to save his brother's life.

Farm North of Shelby.

The accident occurred about 1:45 p. m. on the Fred Stoner farm two miles northeast of Shelby where the two brothers were operating the tractor and combine thresher. The victim was a tenant on the John Heyde farm nearby.

A native of Fulton county, Ebersole had lived in the Shelby community for several years. He was a member of the Crestline English Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs Fannie Ebersole, three children, Virginia, Lorrain and Lionell, at home; his mother, Mrs. Lydia Ebersole, of near Attica; four brothers, Milo and Donald of near Attica; Elbert of Elberton O., and Emerson of Toledo; three sisters, Mrs. Marjorie LaPointe and Mrs. Mabel Fillion of Lamberville, Mich., and Mrs. Enolla LaPointe of Toledo.

Funeral Monday.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the family home near Shelby and at 2:30 p. m. at the Dick and Dye funeral home, Shelby. Rev. D. B. Young, pastor, and Rev. M. B. Paetznick, assistant pastor, of the First Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

'ROVING' COURTS TRY SPEEDERS

Pennsy Sets 50-Mile-an-Hour Limit For Highways.

HARRISBURG, Pa. —(AP)— A system of "roving" courts to punish Pennsylvania traffic speeders will open in 11 districts Monday, with three dozen offenders facing possible loss of their drivers' licenses for at least 90 days.

Governor George H. Earle authorized the speeders court in his decree that all drivers going more than 50 miles an hour should be punished.

Motor police substations will be used for the hearings at sites where most convenient for the drivers involved.

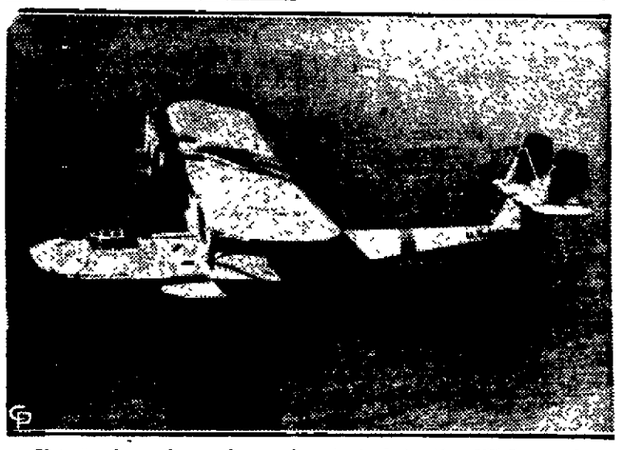
Navy Bomber Still Missing



Shown above is a plane of the same type as the missing U. S. navy bombing plane which disappeared in the Pacific ocean with seven aboard and for which a gigantic search by air and sea was being continued today. The plane, a twin-motored bomber, was attached to the VP-7 squadron, which last year won a trophy for the finest safety record. Two of those aboard are shown in the photo: Lieut. T. E. Carpenter of Passumpsic, Vt., the pilot, at right, and Cadet Philip O. Browning of Lees Summit, Mo

Rare Operation Joins Boy To Girl Seared In Blaze

Enables Youth's Blood Stream to Flow With Her's And Permit Grafting of 24 Ounces of Flesh.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A 16-year-old boy allowed science to make him a Siamese twin today to enable a 13-year-old girl to become a human being.

An 18-inch tube of flesh literally made John Melvin Bonner and Clara Howard one individual. The strange operation, linking the two Negro children, if successful will enable surgeons to graft new skin on the body of the little girl to replace flesh seared by a fire in North Carolina more than a year ago.

Both 'Doing Well.'

Dr. R. E. Morgan, surgeon who performed the operation at Emergency hospital, said the children were "doing well." He hoped the operation would be successful and that Clara would emerge from it a normal human being.

A year ago, the little colored girl was seared by a fire. Her flesh was burned so desperately that doctors said she couldn't live. She recovered, however, but the flames left her body a mass of scar tissue, so extensive that her right arm was joined to her body.

Surgeons were able to replace a portion of the seared skin in grafting operations. But the major transfer of skin necessary to restore her to normalcy required desperate measures—linking her with a skin-donor willing to permit himself to be joined to her, to permit his blood stream to join with her to enable a graft of 24 ounces of flesh.

Young Bonner volunteered.

SPLIT WIDENS

Landon's Rejection of G. O. P. Post Stirs New Comment.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The unofficial split in high Republican ranks was believed widened today by the refusal of Alf M. Landon, 1936 G. O. P. standard bearer, to accept a position on the Republican committee on program. Former President Herbert C. Hoover accepted a similar offer, but "only as a rank and file member."

Landon declined an invitation to serve as honorary chairman of the committee which is headed by Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin.

His running mate in the 1936 election, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, also declined to serve on the committee, but former Vice-President Charles G. Dawes said he was "ready to serve the Republican party and the program committee in any capacity." Dawes, like Hoover, refused an honorary chairmanship.

HOLD SUSPECT IN 3 SLAYINGS

Virginia Police Jail Man Suspected Triple Murder.

BERLINGTON, W. Va —(AP)— Chief of Police D. L. Ervin announced the arrest today of a man he said answered the description of a farm-hand wanted for questioning in the slaying of Henry Baumeister and two others near North Lima, O., Tuesday

Ervin turned the suspect over to state police at Philippi, who contacted Ohio officials.

At the same time, Sheriff J. N. Forman of Barbour county said at Philippi he did not believe the suspect was the wanted farmhand.

Police of three states and federal agents have cooperated in the search for the slayer of Baumeister, his wife and his father.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Physicians said today a heart attack caused the death of David J. Wikoff, 61, while he watched a motion picture yesterday.

Jury to Ask Increase In Parole Board

Davey Says 'Scathing' Statement Due—Own Visit 'Pleasant.'

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—From Gov. Martin L. Davey it was learned today that the special grand jury which has been investigating Ohio's parole system for several weeks will recommend a board of parole of five members instead of four.

The governor also said the grand jury would make a "scathing report" on physical conditions at Ohio penitentiary but would not, as far as he knows, criticize its management.

The governor described his own appearance before the grand jury yesterday as "very pleasant" and "more conversational than inquisitorial."

"They were all very kind and generous toward me, and they all wished me good luck," he said.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting the investigation, told him that no unfriendliness was intended by any statement he had made about calling him before the jury, the governor said.

Asked About Painter.

Gov. Davey said he was asked why he granted a full pardon instead of an "imminent-danger-of-death" parole to Kenyon V. Painter, former Cleveland banker who spent a month in Ohio penitentiary. He said he told the jury there was "no particular reason" for granting a pardon.

The governor said that after he had been asked formal questions about the Painter case he explained that neither he nor his tree surgery company ever had obtained loans from the Union Trust Co., Cleveland,—of which Painter was a director.

The jury also asked him, he said, why he saved Alvan Connor of Akron from the electric chair for the murder of John Mastrojohn. He said he explained that he was informed that another man did the actual killing and that he did not receive the death sentence

Gov. Davey said he was not asked about John L. Harris, of Kent, the governor's home town, who allegedly admitted that he received $500 from Michael Rubenstein of Akron in connection with the Connor case

He also was asked why he saved Jacob Sulkin, member of the Toledo Licavoli gang, from the electric chair. He said he told the jury that he saved Sulkin because two other members of the gang had escaped the death penalty.

He said he discussed the "problems of pardon and parole" with the grand jury

"I had never been before a

Japs Point Guns at Troops, Provocate New Tension.

SHANGHAI —(AP)— Japanese soldiers trained rifles and a machine gun on French troops in the French concession for an hour today and rough-handled a member of the French police in the second critical incident in international areas of Shanghai in two days.

Two British soldiers were beaten yesterday.

British Commander Major General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollet protested the British incident, and French officials were strongly considering a formal protest to Japanese today.

The belligerent show of force began today after a Chinese woman crossed into the French zone from the native district, Nantao, to obtain water.

Worried Look On Father's Face Has Reason for Being--Yule Bills Are Due

Time's Here to Pay for All Those Pretty Christmas Gifts.

If father looks more than ordinarily worried these days, there's a reason and it hinges on the calendar.

Monday is Jan. 10—and the Day of Reckoning. Which means it's time to pay those Christmas bills.

"And lo, it came to pass, even as they had been forewarned, that there would be a day of reckoning. But even then there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth as there descended upon the people a flood of bills," which may give you an idea of what that worried look is about.

Now father can pay for those exotic shirts and neckties that the family gave him for Christmas. But then perhaps the paying for them isn't any more painful than the wearing of them.

Bills for Christmas pretties were sent out Jan. 1, and most of them are due by the 10th. And so father has found that no matter how delightful an occasion Dec. 25 may be, with all of its gifts and remembrances—Jan. 10 is a more important day from his standpoint.

And it's along about that same date that father begins to wonder what happened to those Christmas savings checks he had heard so much about all year

They seemed such a swell idea, even if he did have to help keep them up, because they'd come in handy on Jan. 10. But by the tenth day of the New Year, Dad's day of reckoning—the Christmas checks are in the same category as last year's snows.

It's certain that there'll be a lot of bills to pay No accurate estimate can be made of installment credit purchases of Yule gifts and of course a large number of presents were bought on a cash basis. But it's a safe guess that bill due for payment Monday will total at least a million dollars in Mansfield—which is plenty reason for a worried look and a headache for father

But there's one consolation—after Jan. 10, it's 350 days until next Christmas!

JOB ROLLS TO HIT 100,000 FIGURE SOON

55,000 at Chrysler Plants to Return to Work Tuesday; Hudson Adds 6,000.

FORD MAPS OPERATIONS

Company Hopes to Put 35,000 Back on Job Jan. 17 After Holiday Lay-Off.

DETROIT — (UP) — More than 60,000 employes of automobile plants will return to their jobs next week, officials of two major manufacturers disclosed today, and there were indications that the figure would be increased to 100,000 within a few weeks

Approximately 55,000 persons who were working in the various divisions of Chrysler corporation before the plants were closed on Dec 23 will return to their jobs next Tuesday, corporation officials announced.

Hudson Maps Operations.

At the Hudson Motor Car company, where a new, low-priced car will go into production soon, 6,000 men will be employed before the end of next week.

Many of the 35,000 workers at the Ford company's Rouge plant, laid off before Christmas, will be rehired "as soon as business conditions permit," according to Harry Bennett, head of the Ford personnel department.

The return of 55,000 Chrysler workers, officials explained, will not affect the 20,000 men laid off during November and December. Plant operations will include a 24-hour week, with the hours increasing as business conditions improve, officials said.

Hudson, with $11,000,000 being spent on the new car, already has begun hiring men to begin preliminary operations to actual production of the model. The Hudson payroll, a spokesman said, would be increased by $1,250,000 a month when the entire 6,000 men are at work.

Bennett, discussing the Ford employment situation, said that at present there were about 25,000 men at work in the Rouge plant.

"As soon as business conditions get better, more men will be called back," he said.

Depends on Business.

"The company hopes to have all of the 35,000 men laid off before Christmas back at work around Jan. 17, but business conditions alone will decide it."

General Motors corporation, which announced the layoff of 30,000 workers on Jan. 1, has not indicated whether any of these workers would be recalled to their jobs in the near future. At the time of the announcement, William S. Knudsen, president, said he hoped those laid off could be called back before spring. Since last October, 60,000 General Motors workers have lost their jobs due to heavy inventories and a falling off of the used car market.

Mate, One of Seven On Missing Plane, Feared Disaster

BULLETIN

SAN PEDRO, Calif.— (AP) — The coast guard reported today a floating patch of oil and a broken life preserver were found by the crew of one of its cutters near San Clemente Island, giving rise to increasing fear that the navy's missing bomber with seven aboard crashed into the Pacific.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(U.P.)—A machinist's mate, one of the seven men who have been lost at sea since Wednesday with a navy bombing plane, had a premonition of disaster and didn't want to make the trip, his wife said today.

With her two small children at her side, Mrs. Edna Peace watched the navy's great fleet of ships and planes assemble in the harbor and move out to join the search. She sobbed with despair while she kept the vigil of all women who for ages have seen their husbands go to sea and then have been brought back word of the misadventures that befell them

Her husband, Loren Peace, had transferred to the vanished flying boat only a few hours before it went out for maneuvers.

"I knew something would happen to him when he was transferred from plane one to plane four," she said. "I tried to persuade him to stay at home Wednesday, but he insisted on going.

"He didn't want to go, because he, too, was afraid something was going to happen. But he was afraid he'd lose his chance to become a chief mate if he stayed at home."

Church Societies Hear Program On "Rural America"

The Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the First Methodist church met Thursday afternoon at the church for regular business sessions. Following the meetings the Home society presented the program.

The first three chapters of the study book, "Rebuilding Rural America," were reviewed. Mrs. R. W. James, Mrs. Sidney Palmer and Mrs. E. G. Corwin discussed the specific topic "Journeys Along Rural Roads."

"Missionary Journeys" from the Women's Home Missions was presented by Mrs. A. C. Forsythe. Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth offered a vocal solo. Mrs F E Rudd was the accompanist. The next meeting of the two societies will be Feb. 3.

Teachers Entertain at Tea, Present Program

Third grade teachers at Hedges school were hostesses Friday afternoon at a demonstration and tea for all third grade teachers in the city, which was held at the school building.

An interesting demonstration was given by Miss Edwina Morrow representative of the American Book company, on the proper way to give a reading lesson.

A social hour followed the demonstration, with the Misses Marjorie Gongwer, Helen Myers and Louise Palmer, third grade teachers, as hostesses. Miss Dora McLeod, primary supervisor of Mansfield, presided at the tea table.

Mrs. Hutzelman, Mrs. Crider Take Charge of Meet

Mrs. Leonard Hutzelman and Mrs. Earl Crider were in charge of the meeting or the Women's Missionary society of the First United Brethren church Thursday afternoon. "Rebuilding Rural America" was the general topic for discussion.

Mrs. Crider sang a solo and a number of short talks were given. Those speaking were Mrs. Ward Barrett, Mrs. Crider, Mrs. Leo Jones, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Robert Hoover.

President, Mrs. Oscar Yahney, was in charge of the business session. The social committee was Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. William Swinehart, and Mrs. Raymond Holmes. The date of the next meeting was not announced.

Mrs. Angeloff Has Surprise Shower For Bride-Elect

Mrs. Andy Angeloff, 76 Atchison avenue, was hostess last night at a surprise shower given in honor of Miss Helen Angeloff who will become the bride of Samuel Branoff, Detroit, Jan. 23. This was the first pre-nuptial affair given for the bride-to-be.

Mrs. Angeloff, who is an aunt of the bride-elect, entertained with various games during the evening and served a luncheon at a long table decorated with a color scheme of red, white and blue and centered by a low bowl of harmonizing flowers.

Shower gifts from the 40 guests were arranged on a small table for the bride-elect. Miss Angeloff is the daughter of Mrs. Chokreff and lives at 78 McPherson street.

Mansfield Girls Wed During Holidays

Jared Mansfield D. A. R. Will Conduct Series of Card Parties

MRS. C. H. HENKEL was in charge of a program on "National Defense" presented before 30 members and one guest of Jared Mansfield chapter, D. A. R. yesterday afternoon at the Women's Club.

Mrs. Henkel was assisted as program chairman by Mrs. George J. Kochenderfer, Mrs. Claude Blake, Mrs. Frances J. Gosser, and the Misses Abigail Swineford and Jeannette Martin.

A number of committee reports were heard, among them one from Mrs. R. F. Miller, concerning a series of card parties to be held by the chapter within the next few weeks.

During the business session, the chapter voted to furnish funds to the Friendly House for its first aid medicine cabinet and for a year's subscription to National Geographic. It also voted to contribute funds to the Lincoln Memorial institute at Harrogate, Tenn., for a tablet in Constitutional hall, Washington, in honor of Mrs. William Russell Magna, former president general of the D. A. R., and for a glass case in the museum of Memorial Continental hall at Washington in honor of Ohio State regent, Mrs. John S. Heaume.

Mrs. A. C. Butterfield and Mrs. Ella Chase were hostesses at yesterday's meeting, at which Mrs. Richardson of Chicago was a guest. Mrs. Sidney Palmer, chaplain, was in charge of devotionals.

Mrs. Paul M. Eliot and Mrs. Stanley Richardson will be hostesses at the next meeting on Feb. 4.

It appears that council's ordinance to close liquor places at 1 a. m. may also turn out to have been another "noble experiment."

Maybe the railroads would make more money with higher rates; but, then again, maybe higher rates would merely help the automobile and truck business.

As Viewed By Our Three Judges.

JUDGE C. H. HUSTON, of the Richland county common pleas court, expresses strong disapproval of the proposal to amend Mansfield's city ordinance which fixes the closing time for night clubs and other liquor sales places at midnight on Saturday and at 1 a. m. on other days of the week.

His views on this subject, as expressed in a letter to Russell D. Porch, chairman of the special council committee to which the matter was referred, concur with those of Probate Judge C. J. Anderson and Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, which have been given previous mention.

While liquor interests all over the country are urging abolition of abuses in the sale-by-the-drink liquor traffic, in order to combat the rising wave of public sentiment against it, Mansfield licensees operating under D-3a and D-5 permits have adopted what appears to be a short-sighted policy of seeking to continue to stay open until 2:30 a. m.

The following excerpt from the magazine, "Spirits," devoted to the interests of the liquor trade, is illuminating:

"Laws prohibiting the sale to minors, and requiring closing at certain hours, in many instances are winked at and ignored by police officials. In one city it is reported that strip dances are an extra added attraction, but without extra cost for the patrons of that saloon. Distillers and wholesalers are not only preaching moderation, but warning the trade of the consequences of a continuation of existing conditions."

If members of city council are to give serious consideration to the appeal of liquor dealers for permission to remain open until 2:30 a. m. they might also take into account that portion of the citizenship which would approve amending the present ordinance to make midnight the closing time EVERY night in the week.

Death at Unguarded Grade Crossing.

AN unguarded railroad grade crossing on a much-used street was the scene of Mansfield's first traffic fatality for 1938.

Those familiar with this crossing realize the danger involved in permitting it to be unguarded by flasher lights, which have now become common to grade crossings on even much less used thoroughfares.

The fact that the Erie railroad crossing on Bowman street, a short distance north of the B. & O. crossing, is conspicuously guarded by flasher lights, tends to increase the hazard of the unprotected B. & O. crossing, as motorists are inclined to assume safety without giving thought that two different railroads are represented, while the flashers apply only to one.

Considering the extensive use of Bowman street as a thoroughfare connecting the west with the northwest section of Mansfield, it seems reasonable to ask that the state utilities commission proceed immediately to require the B. & O. railroad to install flasher danger signals at this grade crossing.

Danger In Broken Treaties.

TREATIES are a thing of the past, says an observer of these troubled times. The law of the jungle prevails in the world.

It doesn't quite prevail yet. There are governments that still respect treaties, after negotiating them in good faith. There are still governments that seek the welfare of their own people without threatening that of other nations.

It is true, however, that many of the treaties written since the World war have become mere "scraps of paper." There are too many governments seeking their own perpetuation rather than their people's welfare. And they seek it by the ruthless methods of the jungle, at home and abroad. That is why peace-loving and law-abiding countries must prepare for self-protection even while they search for means to tame the jungle.

No one knows how it will end, but there is hope in the fact that the free peoples of the world are at last awake to the danger and are seeking to avert it.

Trends of Reading.

A STUDY of 130 public libraries, covering the last ten years, shows a decline in the number of readers since 1935. This is attributed partly to improvement in the employment situation. People who went to the libraries during the depression to fill the idle hours of joblessness, to prepare themselves for new work, or to study economics and sociology in order to understand what was happening in the world, got jobs again and had less time for library-browsing.

That, however, is not considered by librarians to be the only cause. According to one of their number, the libraries are losing patrons these days because they have gone too highbrow. They have sought to supply readers with improving rather than diverting books, so the readers have turned to rental libraries.

This may be a severe criticism of the public libraries, but is just as serious a criticism of the reading public.

Stating It Plainly.

OUT in Minco, Okla., when the citizens became worried over violations of the city's speed laws, they appealed to the safety committee of the American Legion post to do something about it.

Wishing to hit on something that came within the low mentality of the average reckless driver, the Legion boys devised and erected a sign which reads: "This is God's country—don't drive through it like Hell."

In any event, Charley McCarthy came through that Mae West episode with an unsullied reputation.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THIS will be one of those slap-happy efforts. Like plucking the scraps from a rag bag and weaving them into something or other. And, by the way, the old patchwork quilt has been revived. Many's the beautiful work of this patient art I've shivered under.

As a logolept, I still delight in those classic old quilt names, patterns of which were known to thousands on farms and at county fairs. Such as The Rail Fence, The Churn Dash, Young Ladies Ramble and The Goose Chase. Most popular was the log cabin, 21 pieces to the square.

How many family memories were pieced into those quilts! A chink of father's necktie, ditto mother's wedding dress, Elizabeth's green party frock and Aunt Dora's best sateen. And always that bit of lavender plaid from little Patience's Sunday best, in which she was buried..

In the office of Kenneth Collins, a large department store executive, hangs a framed quotation from Ralph Waldo Emerson: "'What will you have?' quoth God. Take It and Pay for It." Anyone applying this lesson can throw away his "You Can" books and plow through the world to triumph.

Most people have noticed that Helen Keller is always photographed from her right side. When younger there was a question in the minds of friends whether or not to have a blemish on her cheek removed and it was finally decided it might cause her mental anguish to tell her about it. The same council of friends persuaded her never to marry.

An idee fixe in the movies is the framed photograph. Always a huge face taken front view in the best commercial manner. Never a portrait by Genthe or Steinlen, never a face with a soul. But a staring exhibitionist and always in a wide silver frame on the southwest corner for the movie star to snatch up and swoon over. This is what the movie directors call "Suggestion."

Beauty hint: There's no doubt that even better than a nail file, the most effective instrument for cleaning the nails is the serrated edge of a folded newspaper. But don't let anyone catch you doing it. It characterizes you as what Gelett Burgess calls a bripkin. And is one of the subway pastimes.

A human reminder of a time when the legitimate theater flourished is the jovial millionaire Frank Vance Storrs and his block long black limousine with the snow white doors. When the Rialto had more than 90 theaters running full blast, Storrs had the program rights for all, programs filled with costly luxury advertising which he furnished to producers free. This revenue was the basis of his fortune. At top season today there are less than 20 productions on the boards. Many believe in another season or so the list will be thinned to a dozen.

Gag: Frank and Berthe Case were recently invited to spend the week-end at the country place of Percy Waxman, well-known magazine editor. In the guest room and the bath adjoining Mrs. Case noticed several towels on which were unmistakably the Algonquin Hotel mark. She politely pretended not to notice this and tried to distract her husband's attention, but there was no hiding the fact. To make it just a little more horrible, upon retiring it was discovered that the sheets and pillow cases on the beds were from their hotel. Not until they returned to their hotel did they learn that Waxman had connived with an assistant manager to borrow the linen for the sole purpose of shocking his guests.

My notion of high in jobs is that of a clerk at the newstand in a large railroad terminal, such as Grand Central or Pennsylvania. To sit on a high stool with a commanding view of the swirl of crowds—there's an especial glamour reserved for travelers—is excitement enough for anyone, but added to that is to have all the latest periodicals and freshest newspaper editions at elbow. But one man's meat is another man's poison indeed. One of the fortunate holders of such a job tells me he never reads a magazine and scans only the headlines of newspapers. As for crowds, they make him sick.

Economic Pressure Spreads Fascism In Europe

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THE DEFECTION of Rumania—and apparently Yugoslavia, too—from the group of democratic nations headed by France and Great Britain indicates that fascism will sweep through all of eastern Europe, up to the borders of the Soviet Union, that Great Britain probably will make a pact with Germany, and that France and Czechoslovakia will have to defend themselves as best they can.

Once, however, the pressure is relieved, fascism gradually may change form, wilt away. For, apparently, it is an ideology of pressure. And the Fascist countries are desperately poor. They desire nothing more than to be in the society of and have commerce with the democratic countries.

For the moment, however, France probably wishes she had not been so cool recently to the Soviet Union—at the suggestion of the British Tory government.

ONE OBSERVER'S VIEW

Some of the best views of the shifting foreign scene are written for the Foreign Policy association by Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean. Mrs. Dean's articles are keenly analytical, and well worth study. The Foreign Policy association's newest pamphlet—"Europe in Crisis"—is by Mrs. Dean.

And L. P. Chase of the association sends a letter along with it containing these illuminating paragraphs:

"Portraying the economic struggle which is taking place in Germany and Italy, Mrs. Dean declares that, 'if it is true that happy nations have no history, the headline space monopolized by Fascist dictatorships in 1937 might be regarded as an indication of inner trouble. . . . Fascist dictatorships, no less than the Democracies they denounce as obsolete, appear to be on trial.' On the other hand, the author finds that the democratic countries of Europe, without resort to force, have demonstrated that democracy has unsuspected reserves of vitality.

After assessing the relative strength of the London-Paris and Rome-Berlin axes, the author comes to the conclusion that the best guarantee against the possibility of a German thrust to the east would be a pledge by Britain and France to help the small states of eastern Europe, not only in case of direct German attack, but of German intervention in their internal affairs 'The choice today, as when Hitler first came to power, is not between peace and war—but between a peace imposed by Germany, which would hardly be an improvement on the imposed settlement of Versailles, and a peace negotiated on terms acceptable not only to the great powers, but to the European community as a whole'."

(This column does not "plug" pamphlets or books, but to answer your question in advance: Copies of "Europe in Crisis" may be obtained for 25 cents from the Foreign Policy association, 8 West Fortieth street, New York City.)

OUR OWN CRISIS

Now to return to the United States:

It is evident that approximately 40 per cent of the population (figuring four persons to a family) requires relief of some sort. This is the worst showing of any civilized country. Evidently, too, there are many premature deaths due to malnutrition.

Anti-Roosevelt ians are using the figures against the president. He, himself, seemed none too eager to see the figures. But the keenest observers are saying among themselves that the figures may bring almost complete acceptance of his program prior to the end of his term. And that may be merely the beginning.

It seems probable, too, that a man to the left of the president will be nominated to succeed him, and the opponent will be a conservative who will consolidate the Old Guard Republicans and Democrats.

The forces have been more sharply dividing than ever in the last few weeks. Some of the ranking Democratic senators who have been on the fence slid into the conservative camp when the Jackson-Ickes speeches were made. They will not support a Democratic candidate to the left of Roosevelt.

Timely Editorial

Split Second Long Enough.

As if to confirm the recent survey revealing that young drivers of automobiles are the most dangerous, there is the testimony of Sunday's grade crossing tragedy in a northeastern Indiana town.

A split second was all the time needed to crush out the lives of five boys and two girls, when their car crashed the crossing gate. Note the ages: Marjory, 14; Gwendolyn, 15; Richard, 15; Lowell, 15; Marvin, 14; Merle, 15; Jacob, 17. A cargo overflowing with the confident spirit of youth. Nothing could hurt them.

Only an easy conscience can blame Fate for such things. In the background somewhere is the owner of the car who permitted its use. Too many children are piloting dreadnaughts.—Toledo Blade.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON—

Liberty and Equality Can't Be Given, They Must Be Earned!

EVERYBODY wanting "rights" these days. Lots of rights. Just as much privilege and power, just as much liberty and opportunity as the next fellow. Everybody sharing equal—or else!

Plenty of a picklement? I'll say. Harry E. Owens and I were talking it over. Harry's the power—that of top telephone affairs in Sacramento, Cal. He'd dropped in—just one of those neighborly mountain junkets—over four hundred miles. Rough road, snowy skies, a storm ahead. But it wasn't—we agreed—the first storm that either of us had known. Nor the first tough going. So, while the back log crackled, we sat talking things over—wondering where it was all heading. Everybody wanting things soft n' equal, wanting things free.

"But it can't be done," said Harry Owens in his quiet way, "Life doesn't happen like that. You can't make people free or give them rights . . . they've got to earn it themselves. In a democracy as well as everywhere else."

"You can't make people free—I started thinking, as you are doing. Thinking of the times when I've demanded "rights and liberty" and have been given what I asked. But they didn't "take." They couldn't. For "rights" and liberty aren't outside things . . . something that can be handed you as a favor, or legislated for you by law. They're an inside process . . . a one-man job.

Take yourself, for example. Has anyone ever made you "free?" Given you "rights?" I'll say they haven't. If you have any, you wrung them—fought for them—built them bit by bit—out of yourself, didn't you? Yes, there were outside circumstances. Kindly people and lucky breaks. But when it came to being free and living regular . . . you had to do it on your own, or go without.

You didn't believe that at first. You thought if you yelled hard enough . . . worked up enough steam . . . you'd get a swell deal. But after all the whining and the fighting and the self-pity, you were right where you started, weren't you? And now you see the reason.

FOR A BIG LIFE ISN'T SOMETHING YOU CAN GET OR BE GIVEN . . .

IT'S SOMETHING YOU MUST MAKE . . .

MAKE OUT OF YOUR OWN SELF . . .

OUT OF THE DEPTHS WITHIN YOU . . .

OUT OF THE DREAMS AND DISILLUSIONMENTS, THE EXPERIMENTS AND FAILURES, THE STRUGGLES AND SACRIFICES.

OUT OF ALL THESE, YOU SLOWLY MAKE YOURSELF, YOUR LIFE, YOUR LUCK . . . YOUR LIBERTY.

AND IF YOU DON'T?

WHY — THAT'S JUST YOUR BAD BREAK!

Simple words, aren't they? Once every American accepted them as a commonplace. Never dreamed of questioning them. Built himself and his nation upon them. Got his life, luck and liberty that way—or went without.

Once everyone lived by those words. But now? Now they surprise us . . . insult us . . . make us mad . . . make us feel that some tough So-n'-So is trying to put something over on us. But we're wrong.

Those words aren't strange or irregular or unfair. They're the living Truth. They're as true for a turnip as they are for a man . . . as true for a ditch digger as they are for a dictator.

YOU MAKE YOUR LIFE AND LIBERTY . . . OF YOU GO WITHOUT.

And nothing can outsmart that living Truth.

You can pile on extra taxes . . . and select new alphabet commissions . . . and go around kissing everyone n' calling him Your Brother—

BUT IF THE SONUVVAGUN DOESN'T CARVE OUT HIS OWN NEW DEAL—

ALL THE FAVORS YOU CAN HAND HIM ARE GONE WITH THE WIND—

AND I DON'T MEAN MAYBE.

WORDS OF THE WISE

A great deal of talent is lost to the world for the want of a little courage.—Sydney Smith.

Do not trust all men, but trust men of worth: the fomer course is silly, the latter a mark of prudence.—Democritus.

What One Man Thinks

—By DAVID GIBSON

Economic discord makes political disease.

Under our present tax system, progress and prosperity cost more than depression and poverty.

A lot of folks tell what time it is by the radio programs—put the children to bed right after Amos an' Andy.

If the Japs come over here and bombed our cities, they wouldn't hit much but parkin' lots and fillin' stations.

To magnify the little things of evil by audible and mental rehearsal, is like unto cultivating a garden of weeds.

What's become of the old time child for whom the whole family felt sorry, because it looked and acted like some elderly relation that they all hated?

Attitude.

IT is as we relate to the world and our fellows—not as the world and our fellows relate to us.

This is the way nature intended it!

We would all be better off, mentally, physically, materially, spiritually, if we took our respective jobs more seriously rather than ourselves—personally.

And jobs include the ownership and management of factories and stores, those who comprise their employment and those in political or public office.

The factory or store, for instance, does not exist for its owners, managers or employes, but rather to supply wants and need to its patrons—the public.

Both, all, should make money, but only as a compensation for service.

The political or public office does not exist for its holder, but rather in service to the public.

I have seen the inside workings of a good many business institutions and organizations involving a high degree of technical skill and general intelligence, which was exercised in all ways save in the too common human weakness of reverse thought and belief that the institution existed for itself or the individuals who comprised it rather than its broad social aspects.

This reverse, wrong attitude has caused the downfall of many a king of old and those of high political place in modern republics—when they come to believe that their people, their public exists for their own power and domination.

My first job in my youth was in the building industry. I have seen long delays in a building project, botched work and large sums of money wasted, all in quarrels over authority between the architect and general contractor, superintendents and foremen and contractors of the varying trades. No lack of knowledge and skill, understand; simply an attempt of one to assert his power over another—taking themselves seriously rather than their tasks.

Then, still in my youth, I became the business manager of a small symphony orchestra. During a rehearsal, the director would make a suggestion for the improved phrasing of a solo horn passage. This particular instrumentalist would become angry, tell the director how many years he had been blowing brass, that the director's little stick didn't make any noise and finally pack up his horn and walk out. The public performance would suffer by reason of the substitution of a less competent player and the angered one would finally end up in a circus band where phrasing didn't count.

I used to have differences with the director as to the programs being above public appreciation of that time, but we both had the interest of the organization and public at heart, and, without feeling, we always arrived at an intelligent compromise.

After I got into the daily newspaper business, I saw valuable and useful newspaper properties absolutely wrecked by quarrels between factions of stockholders or their editors and business managers.

All for power and domination, one over the other, and to the destruction of the institution of which they were a part!

In Oklahoma City I once observed the operation of a daily newspaper that had been started by a group of Socialists. It had a better mechanical equipment and technically a better editorial staff than the two privately owned newspapers in the community.

Every member of the staff, including the mechanical departments, had a voice and vote in the management.

A news item or an editorial would be sent to the composing room; a compositor would put the copy on his rack and after one look would yell out: "By Gad, this don't get into the paper!"

A meeting of the entire working force would be called for a prolonged quarrel over authority and they would frequently not get out an afternoon paper until 10 o'clock at night.

On the two privately owned newspapers of Oklahoma City, the editors, managing and city editors had authority as to what went into or stayed out of their newspapers. As a result they were on the street with an edition every afternoon at 2 o'clock and which functioned both to the readers and advertisers.

That Socialist newspaper has been long out of business, but the two others still remain and have prospered.

On newspapers over which I have had authority, I have always told their staffs, individually and collectively, to think of the newspaper as an institution together with their individual jobs rather than themselves; that there was nothing in toilet-room conferences; that they would get nowhere by jumping up and down and fighting among themselves in the bed of their wagon; that the only way to quicker personal destination of their ambition was to devise some way, in their own particular jobs, to make the wagon go faster—that at least the way would be smoother.

The rise of an individual in a private or public career, according to my observation, is often more a question of Character rather than technical ability or personal shrewdness.

I have seen geniuses lose out in temperamental, self-centered action—taking themselves seriously rather than their jobs.

It is in having courage to stand up, in being patient in the face of discord and grief—in loyalty to the main issue of the institution to which they are a part.

The discordant ones in an organization soon get out or are forced out; they may even destroy an institution of which they are a part—as a cancer often destroys the body containing it. But those who have been patient, loyal to the institution and with the right mental attitude toward their work and themselves, will find and have a place in good times and bad.

If more of us took ourselves less seriously, with more emphasis upon the institutions of which we are a part and our tasks relative to them, why, those who gain by winnings rather than earnings would soon be eliminated by popular disapproval.

All religions of all time that recognize the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, all the wise men of old, have seen this ethical attitude of man to man and in all earthly relations, but only within recent years has it been written and preached as a material reward for observance rather than punishment in neglect.

The argument has been negative—rather than positive.

NEW PROBATION OFFICER NAMED

Crouse, Court Bailiff, Gets County Post as System Is Re-Organized.

The appointment of Harry T. Crouse, common pleas court bailiff, as Richland county probation officer, a newly created office, was announced today by Judge C. H. Huston.

Crouse's appointment, covering a one-year period, was approved by the board of county commissioners who set his salary at $600 a year with $50 additional for traveling expenses.

Crouse will continue as court bailiff, devoting his full time to the two jobs.

The naming of a county probation officer follows re-organization of the state probation system at the first of the year which resulted in the removing of county cases from the supervision of L. W. Woodring, state probation officer.

Crouse has assisted in the handling of the more than 10 probation cases in the county during the past year, and the change in the set-up brings the 60 county cases in Woodring's department under Crouse's direction.

Besides handling monthly reports on the behavior of persons placed on probation by Judge Huston, Crouse will receive and distribute funds paid as alimony and support for children.

Galion's Oldest Citizen To Have 98th Anniversary

GALION—Having the distinction of being Galion's oldest citizen, Mrs M. R. Crim will quietly observe her 98th birthday anniversary at her home, 422 Harding Way West, on Sunday, Jan. 9th. There will be no celebration. Mrs. Crim will probably spend most of the day listening to her radio, which now occupies most of her time.

With the exception of recent years, Mrs. Crim has always been active in various clubs and civic movements. Her husband C. S. Crim, was one of the founders of the First National bank here, and after his death, Mrs. Crim served as bank director for nearly 37 years, retiring a couple of years ago.

She was born in Juniata county, Pa., Jan. 9, 1840.

GETS TAX FUND

BUCYRUS—Receipt of a check for $6,650.20 representing the county's share of the sales tax revenue, has been announced by County Auditor C. C. Metzger.

Of the total sum Bucyrus and Galion will each receive $1,831.75; Crestline $1,185.25 and North Robinson, Tiro, Chatfield and New Washington $21.55 each. Townships will each receive $40 94 and the county's share will be $1,060.21.

FIRE STARTS IN PAPERS

CHALLENGE WALKER CUP GOLFERS

Ryder Cup Golfers Figure They Might Get Revenge For Jones Beating.

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — A few chips and putts from the L. A. five-grand open tournament, the first of the new year: Probably to gain a belated revenge for the lickings Amateur Bob Jones used to hand them, the 1937 Ryder Cup team would like to challenge the 1938 Walker Cup squad, which was chosen yesterday, to a match in May. . . . The amateurs would be suckers to accept, because can you imagine the whipping they would take from Sarazen, Guldahl, Shute, Dudley, Revolta, Nelson, Picard, Smith, Manero and Snead? . . . Study in gameness: The veteran MacDonald Smith, not long out of a sick bed, going around in 35-35. The old Scot can swing, so pure that neither time, disease, or anything else can wreck its honeyed rhythm. . . . Jimmy Thomson would do well to spend some time on the practice green sinking 18 inch putts. He missed one that length to miss a tie with Johnny Revolta in the recent Miami-Biltmore $10,000 open, and yesterday it was a missed 18 incher on the home green that cost him his chance at 64 to lead the field. . . .

* * *

A LETTER from Walter Hagen reveals he is in East Africa, still on the wagon, 20 pounds lighter, and will be back in March after an absence of 14 months to have a try at the National Open. . . . Because he was absent from the tournament last year, Hagen will have to engage in the sectional qualifying rounds. . . . It seems a shame the U. S. G. A. doesn't automatically qualify former open champions. . . . It doesn't require former amateur kings to qualify for their national. . . . Gene Sarazen cabled yesterday that he had just started play in the Manila open, but asked that "none of the boys he told in time to get here as I look like a cinch. My only fear is that Hagen and Kirkwood will come out of the jungle and start playing." . . . Leonard Dodson, recent winner of the Hollywood (Fla.) Open in a playoff with Horton Smith, says his victory was the result of a new swing. . . . "I now use a slot-machine swing, patterned after the motion of yanking down the lever on a two-bit machine," Dodson explained. . . . Horton Smith is generally recognized as the finest putter in the world, but before he started his first round he practiced dropping two-footers for 15 minutes. . . . One of the prominent absentees is "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn who is undecided whether to stick to bridge for a living or return to golf. . . . Al Watrous of Detroit, host at last year's open, is a walking encyclopedia on all sports. . . . Dick Metz, the best looking of all the pros, has been offered a movie contract. . . . The boys are calling Craig Wood "Gar" Wood in recognition of his driving here from Miami in three days. . . .

* * *

THE PROS played for $175,000 in prize money last year, which was $20,000 more than they had to shoot at in 1936. . . . The prize money total will be more than $200,000 this year, according to Freddie Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager. . . . Harry Cooper had a first round 72 but finished in a bad mood. . . . As defending champion, Harry could not understand why the committee had to assign him a starting time so early that the course still was soaking wet and give scores of unknown players choice midday starting times. . . . Babe Didrikson, playing with a wrestler and a professor of religious literature, drew the biggest gallery of the first day. . . . Trying to give the crowd a thrill with a tremendous drive off the first tee, Babe nearly missed the ball and rolled it only a few yards.

Both Score Knockouts, Bout's Called Draw

SALISBURY, Md. — (AP) — Referee Ed Brockman of Baltimore, who says he has officiated at 15,000 bouts, saw something new in boxing when two fighters knocked each other out at the same time here.

Norris Polk of Salisbury and Otts Baker of Baltimore met in a six-round semi-final. They knocked each other down twice in the first round, then let go with rights to the chin. Both went down for the count and were out for five minutes.

Brockman called it a draw.

SETTLING down to their normal pace after a wild first half, Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers of Mansfield high school punched out a close, hard-fought 32 to 30 decision over an aggressive troupe of Cleveland Parma cagers before a near-capacity throng on the home boards last night.

After failing to beat the visitors at their own wild shooting game, the Men of Murphy fell back on their defensive tricks in the third period after obtaining a lead to edge the Parmanites.

Never Behind After Half.

There was no doubt about the outcome after the Tygers stepped in front after the intermission. They then played to retain their lead, and this they did in a masterful fashion as they passed rings around the invaders.

The black-shirted home town athletes went into the fourth period holding a 32 to 25 advantage, and they did not take any chances. The Tygers, who went through the final period without scoring a point, won on the margin they piled up in the preceding quarter.

Parma was held spellbound by the Tygers' neat passing exhibition in the second half, and it was permitted only three baskets, one coming on a rebound and the other two on shots from near the center of the court.

Playing their first game without the services of Freddy Lewis, a mid-season graduate, the Murphymen showed up just as well as they ever did in the second half.

Dugger Leads Scoring.

Jack Dugger, who replaced Lewis in the lineup, did a fine job, and led his teammates in scoring with nine points. Successive baskets by Dugger in the third period gave the Tygers their wide lead which carried through the following chapter.

Mansfield held the lead only once in the first half. The Tygermen trailed 14 to 8 at the end of the first quarter, but, with Dugger and John Hallabrin leading the way, they rallied late in the half to knot the count 22-all. Tommy Scott's free throw in the final seconds tying the score.

Murphy's men never trailed again and after each team made a basket in the first minute of the third quarter, they secured a lead on Lyons' side shot that was never lost.

Mansfield sported a 32 to 24 lead in the third frame before the Cleveland club could retaliate with another point.

Parma threw caution to the wind in the fourth period as it fought desperately to narrow the margin, and it succeeded in crawling within two points of the lead in the final minutes as it rained the hoop with shots from midcourt.

Fourth for Tygers.

The victory was the fourth in six games for the Tygers, whose only defeats were administered by Canton McKinley and Akron Kenmore.

Although Dugger led the point-making, the Mansfield scoring was fairly evenly divided. Scott, Lyons and Hallabrin each contributed six points and Dials added five.

Tinch who was the high scorer of the night with 10 points, Halliwell and Horvath supplied 25 of the 30 points obtained by the invaders.

Apostoli Rips, Tears Champ To Pieces in Non-Title Go

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fred Apostoli, swarthy San Franciscan, has ripped and torn the middleweight champions of two continents into bleeding, reeling helplessness, and he still has nothing more tangible to show for it than the championship of California.

Some three and a half months ago he scored a technical knockout over bald Marcel Thil, champion of Europe, but Thil's title at the time was stored safely in Paris, along with France's other treaures.

Last night the former bellhop gave classic Freddy Steele such a savage beating in the Garden that the bout was stopped in the ninth with the American 160-pound king virtually out on his feet, yet it still brought Apostoli only a wild exultation that came nigh bursting his chest.

"I knew I could do it," he yelled. "I've only lived the last three years to get that guy in the ring. Now if he doesn't give me a title fight I'll claim it anyway."

He might just as well start claiming, for Steele, a wreck of a man as he lay in his dressing room, wouldn't even discuss the possibility of a return encounter with the human machine gun, at any weight. Apostoli was forced to come in last night at 161½, so it was no dice.

"I'll never fight in this town again, moaned the battered champion as an ice pack was applied to his lower groin, where a wild Apostoli left caught him in the seventh round. "They wouldn't give me half the bandage I needed for my hands."

The low punch alone clouded Apostoli's victory. It clearly was accidental, but it took a lot out of Steele. Referee Arthur Donovan held up the battle fully ten seconds an unprecedented action here, until Steele had recovered sufficiently to go on. Later, he blamed the punch for his defeat.

It was too bad it had to happen, because it marred somewhat a great fight, one that kept 8,000 fans screaming.

Steele was the perfect boxer, the sharpshooter, cool and quiet. Apostoli crowded into him, snarling and cursing in the clinches, and throwing the heavier punches. As early as the second round he staggered Steele with a right and twice beat him into the ropes. He gave the champion another bad beating in the third, but Steele never ceased fighting back. But at the outset of the eighth, Apostoli clipped him with a staggering left, and then, by actual count, measured the dazed champion with 51 more lefts and rights to the head before the bell finally sounded. It looked like Steele's head would be torn off, but he refused to go down. The crowd sighed with relief when Donovan stepped between them after 54 more seconds of the same in the ninth.

Shiloh Quint Retains Lead

Simpson Wins Close Verdict

Edges Perrysville to Keep Record Unmarred.

The undefeated Simpson 7th and 8th grade cagers edged Perrysville, 22 to 21, in a Bi-county league tussle on the Simpson court last night. Simpson came back in the second half after trailing 14 to 12 at the intermission. Shiplet led the scoring with nine points. Atkerson tallied 14 for the losers.

In the prelim, Emmer accounted for eight points to lead the Simpson reserves to a 23 to 13 win over the Mayflower church club.

Squad-of-Three Fails to Stop Chuck

They tried to stymie Toledo university's irrepressible Charley Chuckovits last night, but the keen-eyed forward garnered a dozen points to help his quintet to a 47 to 35 interstate victory over the Ball State Basketeers of Muncie, Ind.

Three men romped hither and yon to Chuchovits' speedy tempo, a squad-of-three assigned to keep the brilliant forward from flirting with the besket—yet he caged four goals from the court and added four free throw markers.

For the first time in many moons a teammate, Center Swihart, eclipsed Chuckovits in the scoring column. Swihart sank six goals and a gift shot for a total of 13.

Mildred Wins Mudbath Bout

By REX HESS

AKRON — (AP) — Mildred Burke, Kansas City's comely five-foot-two claimant of the women's lightweight and welterweight world's wrestling championships, grinned through mud-reddened eyes today and declared: "Sure I'd do it again."

Mildred defeated "Babe" Gordon of Chicago last night in what was advertised as the first women's mudbath wrestling match in the history of the mat game.

For 15 minutes and 20 seconds, the two young women slipped, slithered, splashed and sprawled in four inches of oozy loam slime. They threw great gobs of the muck at each other, and rubbed it in each other's hair—to the delight of a howling crowd of 2,500 fans.

BOWS TO GREENWICH

Adario Drops 27 to 22 Decision On Winners' Hardwood.

GREENWICH—Greenwich high chalked up another Twin-Valley league victory last night by defeating Adario high, 27 to 22. Tucker, Adario's forward, set the individual pace with 12 points, and Strimple led the winners with 11. The Adario seconds edged Greenwich, 16 to 11.

CHAPEI RUINED BEYOND REPAIR; FATE IN DOUBT

Chinese Business Section to Require Repairs on All Buildings.

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — Two and a half months of bitter block-to-block warfare reduced Chapei from a prosperous Chinese business community to hundreds of acres of forlorn ruins.

Hardly a house between Soochow creek on the southwest and the open country which begins several miles to the east can be renovated and used again as dwelling, shop or storehouse, it would seem.

Each, save a handful miraculously spared from bombs, bullets and shell fire, must be razed if not already leveled, and built anew.

Bombs have blown buildings apart; leaving only a corner or a fragment of wall standing. Machine-gun fire during the bitter street fighting literally ate away the fronts of buildings, pulverized their inside walls and reduced their furnishings to so many piles of rubbish. What the fighting failed to destroy, the fire set by retreating Chinese turned into desolation.

Only Bodies Removed.

Impassive Japanese troops stationed throughout the district have cleared the bodies from the streets, but to attempt even to sweep them clean would have required half of Gen. Iwane Matsui's Shanghai army.

The streets remain a welter of fallen telephone poles, electric wires, twisted water pipes blasted up from under the surface where Japanese bombs and shell fire tore away the pavement. House fronts which fell in one piece from the force of the explosions obstruct what little traffic cares to use the thoroughfares.

Roof tiles are everywhere. What survived best are sandbag redoubts built by the Chinese defenders, and the occasional solid concrete pillboxes, slotted for machine guns and equipped with electric light and over-stuffed chairs, which the Japanese say the Chinese built long before the war in violation of a demilitarization agreement.

Damage is said to be three times as great as it was in the 1932 war, from which Chapei had hardly recovered.

STIFF PENALTY

American Gets 20 Years In Spanish Train Incident.

VALENCIA—(U.P.)—Because he pulled the whistle cord of a train, Zymund Piasecki, former taxicab driver of Toledo, Ohio, started a 20-year term in a Spanish prison today.

Piasecki, 23, came to Spain and enlisted in the International Brigade. Recently he was granted a two-day leave.

At Albacete he jumped into the cab of a locomotive in the station and pulled the whistle. He was arrested and accused of high treason on the grounds that he had attempted to drive a loyalist train into rebel territory.

Brought before a military court he was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. He began serving the sentence in a concentration camp near Valencia.

'Clutching Hand' Will Scour Sea For Gold Ducats

GLASGOW—(AP)—A Dutch engineer and his mechanical "clutching hand" are going after the 30,000,000 gold ducats that may have been resting at the bottom of Tobermory Bay since the Spanish Armada.

The inventor, Herr Van Wiener, will attempt to find the gold in the wreckage of the Galleon Duque Florenca, off the Isle of Mull, early in the year.

The galleon, part of the mighty Armada of Phillip of Spain, sailed to war with Queen Elizabeth's fleet in 1588.

When the Armada was annihilated, the Duque Florenca was swept by a gale toward the Scottish coast, where the indignant islanders of Mull scuttled her because her master refused to pay for stores he got.

There she has lain ever since, defying the efforts of many the treasure seeker who based his hopes on the story that a Greenock diver in 1665 found "one paper of Latin extracts out of the Spanish records that there were 30 millions of Cashe on board the said Ship, and it tells it lay under ye Sell of the Gunroome."

THEATER

From the Coast—Although no actor or actress has ever won the academy award for best performance two years in succession, there are heavy bets that Paul Muni will win it again this year for "Emile Zola" . . . If rumors are true Chaplin will permit Paulette Goddard to go to work for some other studio if he has not completed a script for her by February . . . Errol Flynn is daft to play "Cyrano de Bergerac" despite the fact that Cyrano's big nose would ruin his classical profile. But he has small chance for his studio owns the rights to the play and are dead set against it. . . .

"Tovarich."

Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer are co-starred in "Tovarich," the famous comedy dealing with the adventures of an exiled Russian prince and grand duchess, which opens as the regular Saturday midnight feature at the Ohio theater at 11:30 today. The film, adapted from the stage play by the same name, has its setting in Paris in the period following the Red revolution. Miss Colbert and Boyer, are cast as a married couple who make a living by working as maid and butler for an important French family. The two have a large fortune in a bank but are keeping it so they may present it to the Czar when he returns to power. Supporting the stars are Anita Louise, Basil Rathbone, Maurice Murphy and Melville Cooper.

"The Barrier."

The picturization of one of Rex Beach's novels, "The Barrier," opens at the Madison theater Sunday. The film is the story of a romance between a West Point graduate on duty in Alaska and a young Alaskan girl, who is believed to be half-Indian. An absorbing photoplay lies in the way to overcome the obstacles in their way to work out happiness together. Heading the cast are Leo Carrillo, Jean Parker, James Ellison, Otto Kruger, Andy Clyde and Sara Haden. Carrillo plays the role of a trapper in love with the girl (Miss Parker) and Ellison portrays the soldier. Kruger plays the part of a mysterious stranger who arrives at the town during the gold rush.

"There Goes the Groom."

A feud between two college friends for the hand of a captivating golddigger is one of the highlights of "There Goes The Groom," romantic comedy opening at the Majestic Sunday. Burgess Meredith, star of 'Winterset," and Onslow Stevens are cast as the rivals, and Louise Henry portrays the girl who jilts Meredith for Stevens, but tries to win him back again when she learns he has made a fortune in Alaska. Additional complications are added when Ann Sothern, Miss Henry's sister, makes a sincere effort to capture Meredith on the rebound, but is handicapped by her mother. The No. 2 feature will be "It's In the Air," with Jack Benny, Ted Healy, Una Markel and Nat Pendelton.

"Souls at Sea."

Based on a famous Philadelphia trial in 1842, just recently unearthed from newspaper files, "Souls at Sea," which opens at the Ritz theater Sunday, is an elemental drama of human terror and the primal instinct of self preservation at work in a motley crowd of human beings caught aboard a burning sailing ship. When part of this crowd must be sacrificed to save the rest, Gary Cooper, captain of the vessel, does not hesitate to make the choice of who shall die and who shall be saved, thus bringing upon himself the charge of manslaughter on the high seas. Interwoven with the story of the sea disaster and the historic trial is a famous slave traffic story. Others in the cast include Frances Dee, George Raft and Olympe Bradna.

STEER ROAMS

Town Tries to Catch Animal But It Returns to Farm.

CIRCLEVILE —(INS)— Nearly everyone in the downtown section of this agricultural center joined to chase a huge steer which broke lose from the stockyards and roamed the town. Despite efforts of numerous would-be cowboys, who dashed into stores for rope to make lariats, the animal went on its way to a farm on the outskirts of town where it peacefully joined a herd grazing.

Want To Be a Justice?

(By The AP Feature Service)

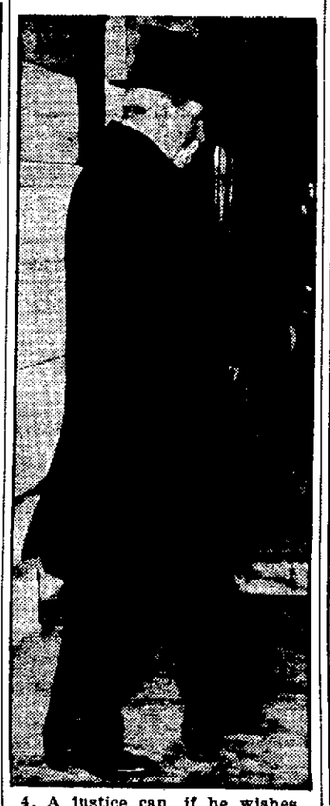
With the retirement of Justice Sutherland, there's another job open on the supreme court. It's up to the president to decide who gets it. If he should happen to pick you, would you take it?

Of course the court has been the center of a good deal of controversy, but being a justice still has its points. We can name four:

1. A justice gets $20,000 a year, enough for anyone to live on comfortably. For instance, Justice Owen D. Roberts, in the role of country gentleman, doesn't have to farm for a living.

2. A justice enjoys prestige second perhaps only to that of the president. As evidence of his prestige Justice Stone is shown examining a bust of himself. Not every living man is considered worth a good bust.

3. A justice, if he behaves, can hold his job for life—no campaigning for votes. To an ex-politician like Justice Black (being congratulated by Vice President Garner on his appointment) it must be quite a relief to be on the receiving end of handshakes from now on.



4. A justice can, if he wishes, mingle in the very best of society. Our case in point is Chief Justice Hughes, shown in top hat as he steps out for an evening.

HEARS REPORTS

Richland Farm Loan Group to Hold Annual Session.

Five directors will be elected and reports for 1937 submitted at a meeting of the Richland County National Farm Loan association Friday, Jan. 14 at the First M. E. church, according to G. H. Culler, president of the organization.

About 200 county farmers are expected to attend the session to help in re-organizing the association under the new farm credit law. The act provides for the election of two directors for three years, two for two years and a fifth for a one-year term. All directors previously were elected for one year.

Speakers at Friday's meeting which will open at 10:30 a. m. include Paul R. Mootz, credit analyst of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville; H. G. Olin, secretary of the Ashland Production Credit association, and George B. Ganyard, Richland county extension agent.

Chartered in 1919, the county loan association has 292 first mortgage farm loans outstanding, amounting to a total of $831,400.

U. S. EXPORTS TO JAPAN FALL OFF

But Shipments to China Show Increase, Department of Commerce Reports.

WASHINGTON— (AP) — United States merchandise exports to Japan fell off sharply in November, but shipments to China apparently increased, the commerce department has reported.

The department said shipments to Japan totaled $18,133,000 in November, compared with $24,100,000 in the same month, 1936. Shipments to China were shown as $2,895,000, compared with $3,227,000 a year ago.

The apparent decline in exports to China was more than offset by an increase from $543,000 in November, 1936, to $3,958,000 in November, 1937, in shipments to the British port of Hongkong, through which much Chinese trade has been routed since the Japanese captured Shanghai.

United States purchases from both of the warring nations increased last November. Imports from China increased from $4,035,000 in November, 1936, to $6,026,000 in November, 1937, while imports from Japan increased from $15,304,000 to $17,190,000.

The report also showed that while Canada increased its purchases from this country, imports of Canadian merchandise into the United States fell off.

Knudsen, Biggers In Capital

John D. Biggers, left, director of the unemployment census, and William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, visit the White House for a discussion of the president's proposal for industrial stabilization of production through conferences between the government and business concerns. Appearing before a special senate committee investigating causes of the business recession, Knudsen predicted that there would be a business upturn by spring. Biggers, in private life, is president of a large glass company at Toledo, Ohio.

As a protest against the failure to enforce the 30-miles-per-hour speed limit 500 people and 10 automobiles paraded in Hampstead Garden, England.

PAM—Dreary Days. By A. W. Brewerton

THE NEXT FEW DAYS WERE HARROWING ONES FOR PAM! - BUT SHE TRIED HER BEST TO "CARRY ON" AT THE OFFICE!
I—I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND SOME THINGS IN THIS WORLD! DAVID WAS SO FINE! - SO BRAVE - DOING SO MUCH GOOD IN THIS WORLD!
—AND HE MUST DIE—WHILE —SO MANY UNWORTHY— CONTINUE TO LIVE! —IT'S HARD TO UNDERSTAND!
OH—I FEEL AS IF—I—I JUST CAN'T GO ON—WITHOUT DAVID!
—BUT—I MUST NOT GIVE UP HOPE - DAVID SAID "BE BRAVE"! — I'LL TRY, DEAR, I'LL TRY!
AND— OH, HOW GRAND IF THEY FIND —IT WAS NOT THEIR PLANE! —IF HE STILL LIVES!
BUT SHE KNEW IN HER HEART IT WAS ONLY A FORLORN HOPE!

LIST LEADERS STEP OVER ON RECOVERY SIDE

Traders Encouraged by Figures of Auto Builders Showing Increase in Sales.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market leaders stepped over on the recovery side today for gains running to a point or more.

Holders of motor shares noted announcements that Chrysler would resume assemblies of its four lines of automobiles Jan. 11, with the recalling of 55,000 employes, the same number on the payroll prior to suspension of operations for the holidays, and that Ford would put 25,000 more men to work Jan. 17.

Notwithstanding the recent sharp drop in public buying of new cars, some encouragement was found in the figures of the Automobile Manufacturers association disclosing total 1937 factory sales passed the 5,000,000 mark for the second time in the history of the industry and was 8 per cent above the 1936 aggregate.

SEEKS PAROLE BOARD INCREASE

Jury to Ask More Members, Davey Says; Declares Own Visit Was 'Pleasant.'

grand jury before and I didn't know what to expect," he said. "It wasn't at all like I expected."

The theory of the five-man parole board is that it could not split 50-50 on any question, he said, adding that he expects the grand jury to commend the new parole board.

The governor was not asked to waive immunity from future prosecution as other witnesses have been.

The governor said he is considering sending a message to the legislature renewing his request for a new prison outside of Columbus.

He said the message would be merely to keep him on record as favoring such an institution inasmuch as he didn't expect the legislature to react favorably to the suggestion.

The grand jury was to meet informally today to prepare a partial report to be given next week. It is expected to recess after Tuesday.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—Demand for wool in Boston was slow yesterday and confined mostly to fine grades. A little fine territory wool was selling in original bags at around 70 to 73 cents scoured basis for bulk good French combing lengths. Short Texas wools were having a little call. Greasy fall wool brought 60 to 63 cents scoured basis and 8-month Texas wools brought around 66 to 68 cents scoured basis.

HUNTER NAMES 45 TO CITY JOBS

Retains Sotherland, Republican, as Superintendent of New Sewage Plant.

tained by Hunter. Earl J. Hoover, 353 Springmill street, was reappointed electrician. R. D. Beal, 144 South Adams street and LaVerne Gutekunst, 119 Hammond avenue, were re-named as laborers at the plant.

In the waterworks department, William A. Painter, 415 West Fifth street, was re-named janitor of the North Main street pumping station and William A. Partello, 152 Western avenue, was re-appointed as janitor of the Longview pumping station. Charles L. Post, 205 Westwood avenue, and Robert Birmelin, 165 McPherson street, were appointed as laborers in the department.

In the street department three truck drivers, Jacob Thomas, Tony Geiger and Louis Benddette were retained while Hunter named six new others, Joseph Kuneman, Virgil Baker, Henry Wappner, William Kissell, Thomas Gentille and B. McLaughlin. Eight laborers who received appointments and who will report for work Monday to replace those laid off are Bert Feasel, Clyde Davis, Jerry O'Brien, Ross Rusk, William Sarafino, Walter Reed, Irvin Bishop and Charles McDermott.

Five Republicans, Thomas Day, Peter Hoffman, James Ziegler, Harvy Germiany, and Steve Petroff, were retained.

In the garbage department, Hunter renamed Charles Osbun, Fred Nail, George Knofflock, Charles Gaul, Jacob Brubaker, A. F. Reamsnider, and John Sonner. Clarence Stillwagon, a former pumpman in the water department who was dismissed from the street department by former Mayor McFarland after filing suit in common pleas court to obtain his former position, also was appointed to the garbage department, as were Charles Krabel and Merle Black.

Two replacements made in the parks department were William Johnson, Central park, and John Longsdorf, North Lake park.

Two Republican repairmen were laid off in the sewer department and Earl Brown, another Republican, was retained. Harold Underwood, a Democrat, was appointed.

2,000 BOW TO LOYALIST ARMY

Starving Insurgents Give Up Vigil in Hide-Outs of Captured Teruel.

MADRID—(AP)—The agonies of thirst, of cold and of hunger in embattled Teruel today forced the surrender of more than 2,000 ragged insurgent soldiers and their wailing and weakened women and children.

For 17 days they stood against government guns, fire and dynamite in guerrilla warfare, from building to building through the narrow and twisting streets of the old provincial capital, 160 miles east of Madrid.

A reinforced insurgent army outside the city fought in vain to come to their rescue, and they bowed at last to the hardship of siege against their hideouts in Asuncion hospital and the dynamite-wrecked Santa Clara church.

The unsuccessful rescuing army itself was encountering trouble—230 insurgents were captured during the battle about Muela de Teruel, outside Teruel, the government said.

The capitulation was in sharp contrast to a previous dramatic siege—when about 1,700 insurgent troops and their kin were rescued by comrades after nearly 10 weeks of government siege against their fortress, the Toledo Alcazar, in 1936.

160 AT DINNER

'Better Churches' Discussed At Baptist Meeting.

About 160 members of Baptist churches of the Mansfield Baptist association, attended the annual dinner-meeting of the group last night in the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The program following the dinner included talks by three leaders in Baptist work, Dr. Coe Hayne of New York, newspaperman, author and publicist for the Northern Baptist convention; Dr. Paul J. Morris, director of promotion for the Ohio Baptist convention, and George Hunt, Kiowa Indian of Oklahoma.

"Better Churches" was the subject discussed by the association. About 1,500 similar meetings are now being held throughout the Northern Baptist convention.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, will go to Cleveland tomorrow where he will appear as a speaker at one of the meetings to be held at the Euclid Avenue Baptist church.

READY FOR BIDS

State Expects to Have Route 42 Cut-Off Paved by Sept. 1.

Completion of paving of the cut-off in route 42 at Windsor, northeast of Mansfield by Sept. 1 was seen today by I. R. Ault, Ashland, division engineer for the state highway department.

"Bids for the paving probably will be accepted by the highway department sometime this month and that will permit completion of the project by late summer," Ault said.

The estimate calls for construction of a 3.59 miles of brick and concrete highway 30 feet wide at a cost of approximately $281,000. Half the funds will come from the federal government and half from the state highway department, Ault said. Most of the labor will be recruited from the lists of the county re-employment service.

Grading and culvert construction for the improvement, which was started two years ago, is nearing completion, with only two small culverts to be built.

company, in testimony before the Senate Unemployment committee.

Wood said the president's opening message to congress had been "reassuring," but that "business doesn't know what to expect" in view of previous speeches by Secretary Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson. In harsh language, Ickes and Jackson accused business of going "on strike" against the government.

Asked by Chairman Byrnes (D-SC), if he would not be more inclined to accept the president's statement, Wood replied in the affirmative, but indicated he still had doubts about the administration's attitude toward business.

One point on which many expressed a desire for clarification was the president's press conference suggestion for round table discussions between business and government to plan production.

The general idea of business-government discussions however, has been widely approved.

Senator Byrnes said today he believed "friendly" conferences would help materially in solving the unemployment problem and in promoting a business upturn.

Senator Davis (R-Penn) added, in a radio speech, a call for discussions which would give the government "the benefit of labor and business brains" in attacking the recession.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said public sentiment was growing more favorable toward his bill to license corporations doing interstate business, as a curb on monopoly.

"We are gradually making it clear to the country," he said, "That the purpose is not to broaden government meddling, but to eradicate it by adopting the principle of government by law instead of by men."

Seeks to Break Filibuster On Anti-Lynching Measure

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

AS YET Norman Alley's news reel pictures of the bombing and sinking of the Panay have not been booked for showing in any Mansfield theater, and it is quite probable that they will not be shown here, except for a private screening for the American Legion.

I saw the Alley film in Canton New Year day and my own feeling is that it should never have been released after the government declared the Panay "incident" closed and accepted Japan's bland apology.

It can only serve as war propaganda, the more deadly effective because it is an actual eye-witness and not imaginative writing, of war scenes of such stark, ghastly tragedy inflicted on a helpless people that a righteous fury must sweep every one who sees it. Alley's pictures of Shanghai under fire are records of Japanese atrocities; of human bodies burning in the streets; of forlorn babies left alone to wail amidst war wreckage; of ragged women in the streets, clinging to the hands of dead husbands and children whimpering with hunger.

* * *

WE ARE ALL so comfortable in the knowledge that we are thousands of miles away from those miserable Chinese women; that while THEIR children die in the path of a ruthless enemy, ours here in America are safe from such a fate. It can't happen here, we tell ourselves, complacently.

And then we see pictures like Alley's and suddenly the old call of distressed humanity comes across the miles and we begin to think in the terms of punishment for the aggressor.

And when that feeling accumulates enough speed, all of a sudden you have the makings of another world conflict.

The Panay incident cannot be "closed" so long as pictures of it are being shown all over the country.

* * *

MANSFIELD merchants are irked by the fact that women here are attempting to use the old racket of the Broadway golddiggers. They were swamped after Christmas by women who brought in gifts given them by friends and purchased in that particular store, who wanted cash for them or credit on their accounts for the price of the gift. The more unreasonable bring back things that are strictly Christmas merchandise and must be held over on the strength of selling it another year.

The height of something or other was reached the other day at a Main street department store when a woman brought back an electric Christmas tree centerpiece for the table. Said now that Christmas was over she had no further use for it and would they please credit it on her account?

They didn't please.

ADMIRED Mrs. Roosevelt for stand on the Big Apple. After all, the White House is her home, it was her children's party, and she refused to condemn something she hadn't seen—even to please the busybodies over the nation who had the bad taste to send her protests at permitting the Big Apple to be danced in her home.

She has consistently refused to be stampeded by well meaning meddlers in the management of her own home and her private life.

COULD anyone refer me to a good, outspoken ditch-digger? Library patrons of St. Joseph, Mo., insisted that Ernest Hemingway's book "To Have and Have Not" is not fit for human consumption because of its too frank dialogue. "The language is that of a ditch-digger," they opined as they demanded that it be taken from the library.

All my life I've heard about ditch-diggers' language. Sounds like it might be fun to engage one in conversation.

THE way Mae West grabs off front page space in legitimate manner just before each one of her pictures is released, is positively uncanny. The entertaining stories of her long-denied marriage managed to break, strangely enough, just before the last two pictures.

And now comes the wave of indignation over her radio skit on Eve and the Garden of Eden. The skit was vulgar, blasphemous and unforgivably stupid. Anyone with an ear attuned to public reactions would have known instantly that it would cause a rumpus.

Heads of the broadcasting company over which the sketch was radioed, and the sponsor are passing the eight ball to Miss West under the storm of protest which followed the broadcast, forgetting, evidently, that the public knows full well they were all familiar with the text of the skit before it ever went on the air.

The fact remains that the plump star's next picture, "Everyday's a Holiday," is due for release, and that through the radio broadcast and the ban forbidding her ever to appear on the network again, she has grabbed yards of front page publicity. And front page publicity is what keeps the merry jingle of the cash register going.

But the whole mess leaves one wondering: Was the National Broadcasting company a victim of the publicity stunt, or was it an aid and abettor? In either event it would seem that NBC needs a guardian.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Ray Bolger, rubberlegs dancer and comedian, is scoring a hit in Hollywood as much for what he hasn't done on the screen as for what he has.

It happened this way:

Famed on the stage as a tap and eccentric dancer, Ray was a hit in "The Great Ziegfeld" last year—appearing in but one number. This year he was assigned to the musical "Rosalie" in a prominent role. But the picture was so long when completed that cutting was necessary. Much of Bolger's stuff was sacrificed in the operation. Result, previewers unanimously inquired: Why wasn't there more of that funny man?"

Ultimate result: There will be more, in "The Girl of the Golden West," and in subsequent films—more, and more.

Ray's from Boston, wanted to be a bank president but became a vaudeville sweet[illegible] man instead, and gave that up for hoofing. Here's how he does it:

CLIMBING

Ray doesn't recommend this for beginners. It's a film [illegible] two feet from the ground. But if you think that's high, look at the next one.

TAKE OFF

Now he's really going into action, flipping himself four feet off the ground while clicking the heels of his shoes together at the same time.

CRASH

Maybe he's in too much of a hurry. Look out, Ray or you'll need a parachute. Anyway, it looks like a bad landing.

GROUNDED

[illegible] back to earth [illegible] Ray you might [illegible] cauliflower ear. Or are dancers tougher than prizefighters?

GIVES PROMISE TO TELL ABOUT 'COMMISSIONS'

Goggin Says 'I'm Only an Ant In the Whole Set-Up'; Denies He Has Influence.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Attorney W. J. Goggin asserted today he had no objection to explaining his association with H. F. Steele, Columbus hardware salesman, to a special senate graft-hunting committee.

"Naturally I'll give an explanation of my association with Steele," he said, commenting on Steele's testimony before the committee that his business with the state, which once totaled $50,000 annually, dropped to $8,000 after he quit paying "commissions" to Goggin.

"I'm just an ant in the whole setup. What if I did get $700 from Steele? That's nothing compared to the millions they say have been taken from taxpayers."

He'll Be Recalled.

The committee indicated Thursday night it would recall Goggin, who refused to answer questions then on the ground that they were an invasion of "strictly personal issues." He also challenged the legal right of the committee to function.

Committee members declined to discuss today when their next public hearing would be held.

Denying in an interview that he had "influence" with either Gov. Martin L. Davey or Francis W. Poulson, State Democratic Chairman, Goggin said he was Steele's attorney for nine months and "if the boy is dissatisfied, it's his fault, not mine."

Giggin declared that Steele "chiseled" during the administration of Govs. Vic Donahey, Myers Y. Cooper and George White, and added: "He's a nice fellow."

A request by finance director M. Ray Allison that the investigation committee question Sen. H. D. Byrne (D-Portage), a "hatchet man," concerning dual positions he held with the state, brought a promise that his own department would be investigated.

Allison had pointed out that Byrne in addition to his $2,000 annual senate salary, received $300 monthly for teaching at Kent State university but the committee replied that statutes specifically exempted "school teachers" from the dual-job ban.

WIDOW, 83, DIES

Mrs. Elva Brooks Stricken at Home of Daughter.

Mrs. Elva R. Brooks, 83, native Richland county resident and widow of Frank Brooks, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward M Tinkey, 200 Bowland road, following a brief illness. Mrs. Brooks was born Sept 10, 1854 near Darlington and had made her home with her daughter since the death of her husband, 15 years ago.

Surviving beside her daughter are two sons, J. E. Brooks of Hoquian, Wash., and J. C. Brooks of Butler; two sisters, Mrs. Nora Perry and Miss Myrtle Algire of Mansfield; three brothers, Hoy Algire and Elmer Algire of Mansfield and John Algire of Lexington; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. She was a member of the Lexington Christian church.

Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter at 2 p. m. Monday in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church. Burial will be in the Shauck cemetery.

7 FOUND GUILTY

Owned Unlicensed Still, Convicted On Conspiracy Charge.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A federal court jury, after deliberating 45 minutes, found seven residents of Portsmouth and vicinity late Friday guilty of conspiracy to violate the internal revenue law.

They were charged with possessing an unlicensed still. The maximum penalty is $10,000 fine or two years in prison, or both. Judge Mel G. Underwood will sentence them Monday.

THEATER SEEKS NAME FOR 'QUIZ NIGHT'—GOT ANY SUGGESTIONS?

What's in a name

Five dollars if you're lucky.

The Ohio theater and The News-Journal are looking for a name and to the person submitting the right one, there will be an award of $5 in cash.

The contest, which closes at 6 p. m. next Wednesday, precedes a series of "Quiz" nights at the Ohio theater, which are scheduled to open Jan. 20. The plan will follow closely that of the "quiz" program of radio popularity. These "quizzes" will be staged every Thursday night, with $18 in cash prizes for each week's winners.

The craze for question bees, which started several years ago with the Ask Me Another games, has gained momentum and is not only a popular pastime at private parties, but has invaded newspapers, magazines, radio and motion picture houses over the country.

When the program gets under way there will be free theater tickets for persons submitting questions and the correct answers, and these will be submitted, in turn, to five persons on the stage of the theater every Thursday night. The cash prizes—$10 for first, $5 for second, and $3 for third—will go to the persons answering the most questions.

The questions will be of general interest and knowledge.

But first the theater must find a suitable and catchy name for its question night as it cannot use the name "Quiz night." Persons may submit as many suggestions as they like, and all entries must be sent to the Question Editor, News-Journal before 6 p. m. Wednesday.

There will be only one prize given, and that will be $5 to the person whose suggestion for a name is accepted by the theater and the newspaper. The name must be original and must not infringe on any copyrighted name now being used by publications or radio programs.

8 FACE CHARGES

Arrested in Dynamite Deaths Of Three Children.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Tenn.—(AP)—Eight persons were jailed today—two on murder charges—in the investigation of a dynamite blast that wrecked a home and killed three children.

Deputies arrived here from Pikeville, Tenn., with two men Sheriff J. M. Moreland said are charged with murder. The sheriff named them as White Tollett and Lee Walker, and said a murder warrant had been issued for Crave Tollett, a brother of White.

Five other men and a woman also are being detained for questioning.

Sheriff Moreland said he was working on a theory the dynamiting yesterday of the Harmon Gouge home near here was linked with a slaying in 1936 in connection with which Gouge, father of the victims, is awaiting trial.

CLEARS TITLE TO SCHOOL LAND

Court's Decision Ends 50-Year-Old Dispute Over Raemelton Property.

A 50-year-old dispute over the title to the Raemelton school property on Trimle road apparently had been settled today.

In a decision handed down by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court, Roger A. Black, Mansfield, was granted a clear title to the acre of land on which the abandoned school building stands. Black came into possession of the land through his father, the late Frank B. Black, who purchased the property at $1,900 at a public auction last June.

The former school property was sold by the Mansfield board of education which acquired the lot six years ago when the Raemelton school was transferred from Madison township to the Mansfield school district.

Several attempts to sell the property were blocked by the heirs of Samuel McKee from whom the acre of ground was purchased in 1854. The fact that the school board was unable to produce a deed to three-fourths of the parcel formed grounds for the long dispute with the McKee heirs.

Action to quiet title to the lot was started by Black soon after the lot was transferred to him by his father by a quit-claim deed.

Included in the property is a brick building which is being used as a residence. A part of the building is said to be more than 100 years old.

CONSTABLE DIES

Harry Hoselton, 76, Dies of Injuries at Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—Harry Hoselton, 76, constable here for the past 10 years, died early Friday evening at his home of complications resulting from injuries he suffered Dec. 1, when he fell down a flight of stairs.

Born July 24, 1861 in Circleville, Mr. Hoselton had lived in Bucyrus for the past 55 years. He had been employed by the Big Four railroad for 42 years, retiring 10 years ago. He was a member of the K. of P. lodge, the Junior Order of American Mechanics, and First Presbyterian church.

Surviving are his wife, Cora; a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Graham of Charleston, W. Va., and two grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Hoselton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary two years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Wise funeral home with Rev. J. Frank Mitchell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

LEWIS YOUNG DIES AT AGE 23

Long Illness Ends In Death of Franklin Township Youth.

Lewis Young, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs James Young of Franklin township, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. G. L. Wiles, 461 Grace street, last night after a lingering illness.

Surviving are his parents, four brothers, George, Harold, Ernest and Joseph, and three sisters, Mrs Wiles, Mrs Calvin Reed and Irene, all of Mansfield and vicinity.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1 p. m. Monday with burial in the Ankenytown cemetery.

Up and Down THE STREET

When it comes to being "weather victims," Sheriff E. P. Long and Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck are in the same class. Long returned from California several weeks ago in the midst of the season's worst cold wave, and yesterday Beck came home from a vacation in Florida to find a snowstorm raging. The weather was ideal in Mansfield during most of the time both were in the sunny climes.

Whether it is the influence of Sonja Henie, Maribel Vinson, Karl Schaefer and other skating experts, North Lake park officials don't know but they say there's considerable more interest in ice skating this winter than in any recent year. Crowds of 500 to 600 are not unusual on the small lake at the West Fourth street park, and the lights along the drive surrounding the lake furnish plenty of illumination for night skating.

* * *

You can take it as an indication of an "open" winter, which weather prognosticators have been predicting, or as a sign that the government ought to expand its radio beacon system for planes so it will include birds. At any rate L. W. (Siegenthaler) Ridgely reports that he saw a couple of sea gulls over Mansfield yesterday. He thinks it could be that they got off their course due to heavy fog their home probably is along Lake Erie somewhere). In that event, radio beacons for sea gulls to reduce the hazards of "blind flying" might be in order.

Teachers turned pupils yesterday at Hedges school and "learned about teaching" from an expert. All third grade teachers in the public schools formed a class in reading, while Miss Edwina Morrow, reading demonstrator for the American Book company, served as the teacher. She took one of the regular reading lessons and, pretending that the teachers were pupils, taught them the rudiments of reading according to the best accepted and modern methods. There were many suppressed giggles as the "pupils" read their lessons.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hypes are among the fortunate Mansfielders who are sporting midwinter sun tans. Hypes, who is chemistry instructor at Senior high, and the Missus spent their Christmas vacation in Florida, and although there was only two weeks in which to acquire a tan, they managed very well by spending considerable time on the beaches.

BARKLEY ACTS TO AVOID JAM IN CONGRESS

Calls Senate to Work Hour Earlier as Debate Menaces Administration Bills.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., called the senate to work an hour earlier today than usual, ready to apply pressure on filibusters against the anti-lynching bill and avoid a log-jam of important administration business.

Still not believing that the obstructionists would cause serious embarrassment to the administration, Barkley said only developments would decide when senate rules would be strictly enforced in an effort to choke off debate on the anti-lynching bill.

See Bitter Fight.

Veteran senators forecast a long and bitter conflict when tempers are strained by day after day of fruitless debate.

Two days of debate on the anti-lynching bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., and Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D., Ind., found its opponents just warming up. They had been aided by a strong plea by Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida.

Borah described the bill as a menace to democracy and self-government, an unwarranted invasion of state rights, an unconstitutional attempt to "sit in judgment" on the southern states.

Borah's dramatic speech gave moral support to the filibusters who know that the bill probably will be passed if it comes to a vote. Wagner and Van Nuys claim 65 votes.

New Deal Bill Waits.

Despite the delay, Barkley had little to worry about for the moment because the only important measure ready for consideration is the government reorganization bill which can wait for several weeks. By that time, the fate of the filibuster may be decided.

Barkley gave several indications of his determination to keep the senate at its business in order to speed debate. He overrode protests of Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., against a Saturday session and he clarified through a ruling by the chair the extent to which filibusters may go in asking for quorum calls to take up time.

"If the privilege of asking a quorum call is abused," he said, "I intend to enforce the rules to stop such tactics."

So far, the filibusters have asked for about five quorum calls a day. They require about 15 minutes each, thus accounting for about an hour out of each day's five hour session.

'FAMILY NIGHT' ON THURSDAY AT ST. PAUL'S

Program and Supper to Mark Congregation's Annual Observance.

The annual "family night" observance at St. Paul Lutheran church will be held Thursday evening with a program and a covered-dish supper.

Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by a short business meeting, during which members will be elected to serve on the church council for 1938 and reports from various organizations will be heard.

Societies Assist.

Entertainment including motion pictures, will be given following the meeting. Members of the Guild and Missionary societies are assisting in staging the affair. Every family and member of the church has been invited to attend.

Other activities of the church scheduled for the coming week are meetings of the Guild and Mary Markley society. The Guild will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Gordon Schwan, 747 Overlook avenue. Miss Florence Deppe will direct the devotional period. The Misses Bernice and Ethel Heuss, 41 Douglas avenue, will entertain members of the Mary Markley society Friday evening. Miss Helen Vandermark will present the topic.

What Do You Know Of Bible? Pastor To Give Answers

Who wrote the Bible? When? In what original form? What became of the original copies? How was it copied, translated, and distributed down through the ages? Why are certain books included and others left out? What are "the best books of the Bible?" Why do not all Bibles read alike? These are among the questions on the Holy book that will be answered in a series of evening services beginning Sunday at the First United Brethren church.

The series will continue until spring and will be conducted by Rev. James L. Boyer, pastor.

Rev. Boyer has studied extensively in this field. The studies throughout the series will be illustrated from time to time with charts and lantern slides

The services will begin at 7:30 p. m., and will be held each Sunday at this time.

PRESERVED 20 YEARS

NEWTON, Mass—(U.P.)—A West Newton, woman, rummaging around her cellar, discovered some eggs still preserved in the "water glass" in which they were placed in World war days. It was found that the passage of 20 years had not robbed the eggs of their original freshness.

MEET MONDAY

Lutheran Ministers of District To Hold Session Here.

A meeting of Lutheran ministers from the Mansfield district will be held at 10:15 a. m. Monday at St. Luke's Lutheran church.

The devotional serrive' will be led by Rev. Carl Driscoll of Lucas, and Rev. Richard Wolf of Plymouth will review the book, "Worship," by Evelyn Underhill. Rev. A. H. Smith of Ashland will direct tse discussion period.

JOIN IN SERVICE

Choir and Organist to Take Part in Baptist Rites.

A musical program will be presented in conjunction with the morning worship service Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The choir will sing 'Turn Thy Face From My Sins" by Sullivan, and Willis E. Wygant, jr., will sing a solo, 'Jesus, Stretch Thy Hand To Me" by Mills.

Three organ selections will be played by Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music. They are "Canzone Amorosa," by Nevin, "Serenade," by Schubert, and 'Prelude" to Act 3 of "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

SHARES IN TAX

Richland One of 56 Counties To Receive Allocations.

Richland county received an allocation of $14,701 in state funds today as the county's share of December sales tax receipts. The money will be used for general operating expenses in the county and its subdivisions.

The allocations went to only 56 counties in the state, while the other 32 either were deprived of funds or received a part of the amounts due because they owe the state for maintenance of patients in state institutions.

Other allocations in this area included $6,650 to Crawford county and $3,483 to Knox county.

Payments were withheld from Morrow, Holmes and Huron counties and 29 others because they have made no satisfactory arrangement with the state auditor to retire their debts

SUNDAY TOPIC

'Sacrament' Subject of Scientists' Lesson-Sermon Sunday.

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? (I Corinthians 10:16.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled" (Matthew 5:6.)

Reader Gives Encouraging Advice

By VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Miss Lee: Since I have read your recent column I have felt that I should write to you. The letter signed 'Weary,' touches me in particular.

"I am a fellow in my twenties, and though not having experienced anything similar to this fellow's experiences, I believe I know how he feels. A true friend is indeed wonderful.

"The purpose of this letter is not to tell of my life but that if possible others may come to know of a few words of encouragement that have given me faith for myself. If we turn in the Bible to the fifteenth chapter of John, thirteenth verse, we read 'Greater love hath no man than this that he lay down his life for his friend.' As the writer's friend gave up his life in an attempt to save him, he may know that his friend's love was the greatest that a man may have.

"There is in the Bible a wonderful story of a true friendship between two fellows, David and Jonathan, which is found in I Samuel 18, 19 and 20th chapters. As 'Weary' is grieved over the loss of his pal, so David was grieved over the death of Jonathan. David's sorrow is told in II Samuel, 1:26, where he says that Jonathan's love for him was 'wonderful, passing the love of woman.'

"I can only rely on your kindness, Miss Lee, for this young fellow to receive these few words of encouragement. He is certainly discouraged, as he writes that he feels sometimes like killing himself. A. L. N."

For those of my readers who do not remember or did not read the column that day, "Weary" is a young man, only 17, who has lost his best pal, said pal having sacrificed his life in an effort to save Weary's. The boy tries to go out with other boys and girls, and have a good time, but feels life is hardly worth living, and thinks he would take his own life if it were not for his mother.

I told him that we all have such losses, which are very hard to bear. But we must go on living and trying to be cheerful. That as his friend had given his life for Weary's, he should make the most of that life. And also that taking his own life would be a deadly thing to do to his mother.

Thank you very much, A. L. N., for your very kind letter. I feel that the comforting things that a man Weary's own age says would probably help him more than my words. He might easily feel that a woman would hardly know how a boy would feel and be able to say the right thing.

I hope so much that Weary reads this column today.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Jan. 9.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries for a fairly active day in both private life and employment. In all, however, there is need for adopting a conciliatory tone, especially with superiors and those in authority. In social affiliations also it might be advisable to maintain amiable relations.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to enjoy a fairly active year, with new undertakings favored. But in employment and in dealing with superiors and those in power, deal tactfully and do not run counter to authority.

A child born on this day may be active and enterprising and inclined to work "on its own," rather than in employment.

For Monday, Jan. 10.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively day, with the mental facilities alert and looking for fresh and quick outlets for expression.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great activity and some brilliant opportunities if they will apply their keen minds to achieving solid denouements, rather than flash gambles, speculation and quick profits. Over-expansion and inflationary schemes may be detrimental.

A child born on this day may have excellent talents and much versatility, with large ambitions. These, however, may be defeated by overacting and extravagances in thought, behavior and expenditure.

Leftover fish can be made into a dozen sandwiches or more if you grind it in the meat grinder. Or, to buy a good-sized fish and to bake it is not far or two cats rather than to buy a small fish that is just enough.

Smartly Styled Dress In Striped Material Can Aid Reducing.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Here's how to achieve new slenderness with the aid of stripes. Choose this simple, easy-to-follow pattern and see how cleverly the vertical stripes add height to your figure and how smartly the diagonal stripes form the yoke. Right anything to take the eye emphasis. Pointed panels in the front skirt are for hip-flattery and skirt freedom. The row of buttons from the neck to the skirt panels creates a line that does grand things to your figure "amidships". Striped cotton, wash silk, seersucker or pique should be your first choice, but if you wish you may also choose small spaced prints for equal flattery. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9586 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and 1 yard ric-rac.

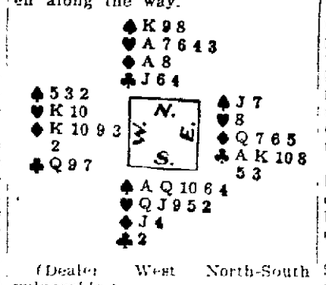
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOTHING TO COUNT ON

WHEN A PLAYER passes a hand on which he should make an opening bid, most anything can ensue. A non-vulnerable opponent with a weak holding may stick in a psychic and, unless the vulnerable side is on its toes, may prevent a nice game. Of course, the side may get into its best contract anyway, in spite of the bad pass, but a correct final contract is nothing to count on if any incorrect action has been taken along the way.



(Dealer: West North-South vulnerable.)

With normal bidding on this deal, it is an easy matter for the North-South players to reach their correct contract of 4-Hearts, but in the duplicate where it was played several of the East players were inveterate psychic bidders who tried to trap the North-South players out of their game. One succeeded.

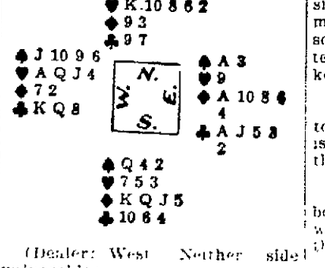
Where this occurred, West passed and so did North. East put in a bid of 1-Heart, figuring that was the suit that the opponents probably had. South passed and West bid 1-No Trump. There was nothing North could do at this point but pass. West did likewise and South came in with a bid of 2-Spades. This became the final contract. You can imagine the chagrin of North when he discovered what his pass had led to.

Another East, over the 1-Heart by North, doubled. South redoubled and East then put in a bid of 1-Spade, but South jumped to 4-Hearts.

Where a club was bid by East, South bid spades, North, hearts, and they also landed in 4-Hearts.

* * *

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against East's 6-Club contract after the lead of the diamond K?

Today's Recipes.

DATE PUDDING — One-half pound pitted dates, one egg, one cup sugar, one cup boiling water, two tablespoons shortening, one-half cup nut meats, one and three-fourths cups flour (before sifting), one teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Top Dressing—one-half pound pitted dates, one cup sugar, three-fourths cup boiling water. Cream egg and sugar, add shortening, salt and nut meats, chopped. Pour boiling water over dried dates and soda and add to mixture. Stir in flour, sifted. Bake in long baking dish. For dressing, cut dates in small pieces, add sugar and boiling water and cook until thick. Serve on pudding and top with whipped cream.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Ways to Vary Meat Loaf.

Pack meat loaf mixture firmly into a ring mold and bake. When done unmold onto a large chop plate, fill center with creamed vegetables and decorate with parsley. Or if the meat loaf is to be served cold as for a buffet supper, fill the center with a crisp vegetable salad.

Line loaf pan with bacon slices before packing in mixture. When unmolded, if these slices are not as brown as desired, place the loaf in the broiler oven for a few minutes after unmolding. The bacon slices add an attractive appearance, and also a delightful flavor to the loaf.

Pack the meat loaf mixture into the bottom of a greased pie pan and well up around the edge. Place a cross of bread dressing on top of the filling and bring edges of meat toward center. Lay bacon slices over top of dressing which is not covered by meat and bake until done, about one hour.

Mold the meat loaf mixture into the shape of a loaf. Place it on a wooden plank, and lay bacon over the top. Bake in a moderate oven. When almost done, arrange tomato halves sprinkled with cheese, and cooked cauliflower flowerets around the meat loaf. Dot cauliflower with butter and return to the oven to finish baking the loaf and to thoroughly heat the vegetables. A variety of vegetables and fruits may be used in this combination, such as baked potatoes, squash, green beans, pineapple slices, pear halves etc. The potatoes and squash are baked for their entire cooking time in the oven with the loaf.

Beauty Kit Handy Item For Desk

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

Once upon a time all a nice girl did was sit at home with her embroidery or sewing. If there was a date in the offing, she had plenty of time to prepare for it. But today, Rochelle Hudson can tell you the average modern maiden's lot is not a simple one. She does her daily work as assiduously as a man. And yet, at the same time, she must retain her daintiness and femininity.

Rochelle claims that nowadays a girl has to be prepared for all occasions, and she's certainly right. The average damsel must be prepared to step from her office into a dimly-lighted night club or a brilliantly illuminated ballroom. She must be ready to go from her schoolroom into the glaring daylight of a football field, or the dim seclusion of an afternoon tea. And she needs cosmetics to make her appear her freshest and loveliest, to make her look her best under all the different lighting effects that she encounters.

It is the wise damsel who realizes this fact. And it is the wise damsel who is always prepared for any event if she's a housewife, of course, she hasn't much to worry about, for she has all the creams and cosmetics she needs right there at home. But if she's an office worker, or a high school of college girl, she's handicapped.

Smart Girl Not Handicapped.

That is, she's handicapped unless she's smart. For if she's clever, she'll keep a beauty kit in her desk or locker, and then she'll be able to prepare herself for any event, and upon even the shortest notice. She'll be able to step out with her best beau, looking fresh and lovely, regardless of how hard she's been forced to work during the day. And she'll get a mental lift out of the refreshing process, too, for when a woman feels tired and dirty, she becomes self-conscious and ill at ease. But when she knows that she looks well, she gains in self-confidence and poise.

There's a young girl of my acquaintance who keeps a small beauty kit in her office, and she always sees to it that it is well stocked. It's not an elaborate affair by any means. It consists merely of a cardboard box that is divided into little compartments. And it contains small-sized duplicates of all the articles that this lass uses at home. She replenishes them as soon as they are used up, too.

Hand lotion, lipstick, cleansing cream, rouge, eyeshadow cream, soap, nail file, nail polish, cleasing tissues, powder and perfume are all included in her kit. And she has almost all the advantages of home right there in her office.

If you are a student or a business girl, I could recommend nothing better than that you follow this damsel's example. Keep a beauty kit in your desk or locker. You really can make one very cheaply. And with all your beauty aids right at hand, you'll be prepared to step out and knock 'em dead at any time at all!

My Neighbor Says:

Slate or enamel sinks may be kept in good condition if occasionally washed with a soap jelly made by dissolving a large bar of soap in two quarts of boiling water to which two tablespoons of kerosene have been added.

Sweet cream spread over the top crust of a pie just before it is put into the oven will make the crust brown and flaky.

Salted meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

Borax whitens napkins. Use a tablespoon of borax in each two quarts of water used for rinsing the napkins.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

As Dicky and I faced each other on the threshold of his room, there caromed around my brain an insistent question.

Why had he crumpled papers together hastily at the sound of my knock, then slammed them into his desk and locked it before he admitted me?

Dicky is the least secretive of men, as he is one of the most careless. His room is a jumble of everything from unfinished drawings to partially-worn neckties. Business and social letters bulge from his overcrowded desk which he never bothers to lock. Only when the rising tide so engulfs him that he cannot work does he consent to let me clean house for him, and he turns the room over to me, knowing that I will throw away no scrap of paper that he possibly could need.

It takes me hours to go through his jumbled and tumbled belongings, but when I have finished, his clothing is all arranged in closets and bureau drawers; his drawings are upon his table or in files; his letters from art editors in his professional file, bills clipped together and social correspondence in pigeonholes in his desk.

No one save myself is ever permited to touch his papers, but never have I known him to make any reservation of things that I was not to handle. He simply spreads his hands in a comic gesture of despair and walks out, leaving the mess to me for clearing up.

This secrecy was something new and intrigued me a bit unpleasantly, even while I answered his query, 'And now, with Mother and the maid settled, what's next on your mind, me?"

"You've scored the first time," I told him with a smile that I hoped did not look as forced as it felt. "I've just packed all the things I'm taking in, and set in order the belongings I'm leaving. I can't do anything for Mary until tomorrow, so I thought I might as well come over and dust you off a bit. Your room really needs an overhauling, and I can pack your bags to take into the city, if you wish."

His eyelids knitted into a portentous frown.

'But I don't wish," he said, and I saw with astonishment that he was disconcerted by the request, and that he was having to make a real effort to keep his voice courteous.

"You surely have enough to do without worrying about me," he went on. "And as for the room, what's the mater with it?"

I smothered the retort that everything was the matter with his room and substituted, instead, an innocuous, 'Sorry! It isn't as bad as I thought."

"Things rarely are," he gibed, and I clenched my fingers in the folds of my gown. But I could not keep the obvious retort from my lips:

'Sometimes they're worse," I said, coolly.

His eyes were suddenly stormy.

'Now, what do you mean by that?" he demanded.

I widened my eyes at him innocently.

Enough to Do.

'Why! just nothing at all," I said. 'It was a retort rhetorical. And I agree with you. I do have enough to do without worrying about you. If you'll excuse me, I'll go now and rest up before anything else has to be done. I wouldn't have bothered you at all only I thought you might want me to pack as you often do."

I was careful to keep my voice devoid of rancor or reproach, and even managed an apparently careless smile as I turned away from the door. But I had not taken a step before Dicky had caught me and was holding me so tightly that I could scarcely breathe, the while he smiled down at me teasingly.

"Goose!" he teased. "Of course I want you to pack for me. You know what a mess I always make of things. Have you time now to do it? If you have I'll get out the old bags and start tossing things on the bed and floor as per usual."

Settings For Tables Topic Of Article

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm a little confused about the proper use of candles on the dining table. I am told you say they are part of the table setting of a dinner or supper table even though not lighted. What about the dining table when set for a big afternoon tea? Candles would certainly trim the table and also the luncheon table, but are they correct?

Answer: Like many rules of etiquette, those governing candles are rather arbitrary. Candles were necessarily put on for dinner for the sake of light and they are always proper on a table set for an evening meal whether their light is needed or not. In the daytime they are proper only when the room is otherwise dark. On a dining room tea table they are correct because tea parties were usually given in the winter time and that meant a table that had to be artificially light. In midsummer or a veranda, candles would of course be absurd. On the small afternoon tea table they are never correct. The light should come from the lights of the room.

Dear Mrs. Post: I've noticed that the makers of Wedgewood and Spode china are making a small soup plate with a rim. This plate is exactly like the soup plates we had at home but smaller. If you were I, would you buy them instead of cream soup cups?

Answer: If you like to set your table with damask cloth and make it distinctly a dinner table setting and not a supper table setting, then the soup plates would be suitable. If you set your table with mats, cups and saucers would be more suitable.

Dear Mrs. Post: Never before have I owned service plates. Last week a friend gave me some lovely ones. Do service plates belong only on the tables of those who have expert service, or could they be used in my house without handicapping my normally slow maid?

Answer: Service plates are used on all formally set tables. It is not the pattern of the service plate that gives it this name but the mere fact that each place at table is set with it. If your first course is soup, this is put down on top of the plate; if your first course is a cold one, you can perfectly well eat it on the service plate. You can even have the service plate heated and eat a hot first course on it. In formal houses the service plate is always exchanged for another one—but since this makes needless work in a house of no service it is utterly senseless to put a useless plate on only to take it off again.

Dear Mrs. Post: A dear friend has asked me to be her only attendant at a very simple wedding which she is to have at home. She is wearing a long (ankle length) afternoon dress and a hat with medium wide brim. She has readily agreed that I should wear a street length dress, which I will certainly find more useful afterward than the longer type. This is worrying me, however, because I'm afraid that she has just been generous and that I shall spoil her wedding by my shorter dress. Before I buy this will you tell me what you think about it.

Answer: The longer length would be more suitable certainly—not so much because of its length, as because of the street or sports type of dress a short skirt implies. If it is otherwise suitable its length is not so important as it would be were the bride wearing white.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of bridesmaids' hats do you suggest as most suitable with long taffeta dresses? Could a hat be chosen that would be useful afterward? The wedding will take place in the late afternoon.

Answer: The hats this autumn are so unbecoming, as well as crazy, that the only thing to do, it seems to me, is to select whichever model handicaps the good looks of bridesmaids least.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance was a major in the army during the World war. I think, since every one calls him "Major," that this title should be used on our wedding announcements. He thinks, since he is no longer in any way connected with the army, that he should not use it, although I know he would like to. And for this reason I wish you would tell us what you think.

Answer: Even if your fiance were a reserve officer the use of his title would be in very bad taste. Your fiance proves his good taste in his instinctive hesitation to use it.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

CHAPTER XXVI

"I was in California when I read of her death in the papers," Brenda went on. "But, you see, Karen, the police in Harriston naturally did not know that Mrs. Craig Stanhope who was killed in a train wreck was the Mary Redfern, the actress, they were looking for. Mary Redfern was her stage name.

"And I was in California and I didn't know she had sent for me to come to you!

"They identified her by a card in her bag. That was all. There—there was almost nothing left except wreckage. So Craig thought you had died too.

"I wired Craig but I didn't hear from him. Several weeks later when I returned to New York, there was Lela's letter. I tried to get Craig at the university but he'd gone. I tried his home and no one knew where he was. I didn't know until years later that a famous doctor, knowing about Lela's death and supposedly yours, and knowing that if Craig did not have encouragement then, he would never attain the things of which he gave high promise, had sent him abroad to study.

"Now Karen, this is where I come in. I was the only person in the world who knew you were alive. And I—I didn't go for you! I didn't know where Craig was. And I—I was selfish. I'd just been offered an important part and I didn't know what to do with a baby. My mother had died in the meantime. I was badly upset about that. There wasn't any money left and I was living in small quarters with another girl.

"But I have no excuse. I should have gone for you! But I tried to comfort myself by hoping and praying that nice people would take you and that you'd have a happy life.

"And so all the years before and after Craig came back home I knew he had a daughter growing up in Harriston. But I was selfishly afraid to tell him! That's why I wouldn't marry him.

"And all these weeks I've known you, Karen, I have tried to make you like me enough to forgive me when I had to tell you this."

"Today I went to the hospital and told Craig. I asked him to forgive me, too."

Her voice was quite low now. "He didn't bring us to the theatre tonight because he. . . ."

"Because he wouldn't forgive you?" Karen asked.

Brenda shook her head and smiled. "No. Not that. He did forgive me. He didn't come because he said I had to tell you before he saw you. He's . . . waiting, I think. He knows I'm telling you now. He said he'd tell you. But I wouldn't let him.

"Karen, do you—do you want to see your father?"

* * *

Her father! Craig! Her head ached with crowded thoughts and pictures. But it was clear, all very clear now, and it was really quite a simple story.

"Yes, I'd like to see him now, Brenda."

"You understand everything? It was such a long time ago. It . . . "

And Karen knew she was asking to be forgiven.

Looking up, she smiled.

"I understand everything. I told you I could never hate you because you've been so good to me, Brenda. I—I think you've more than paid for that one wrong."

The other's eyes filled. "Thank you for saying that, my dear."

She opened the door and Karen saw Craig's distinguished gray hair.

"I'm going to leave you with—with your father, Karen."

* * *

Craig came into the dressing room filled with flowers and he and Karen looked at each other.

My father, she thought. This tall, distinguished man, this famous surgeon. All through her childhood she had dreamed of meeting her mother.

She thought of Philip—Philip again. Brenda had said that she owed her success to him and now it was also because of his interest in her that she would no longer wonder who she was and would no longer have a queer feeling when any one mentioned a birthday. And no longer would she feel different from other people. Philip—again!

Craig came forward and without saying anything took her in his arms and held her close a long time. Karen felt this strong, steady man tremble and knew she was trembling, too. She did not want to cry. But tears she could not help spilled over her lashes.

Releasing her a little but still holding her, he looked into her face.

"Karen," he said. To relieve his feelings, he smiled.

"I should have known. You know, you and I look a good bit alike. We didn't call you Karen but it's really a nicer name than the one we gave you."

He knew he must be gentle with her. He knew he could not show his feelings. My child! My daughter! But for Philip he would never have known!

"I know," he said kindly. "It is hard to believe. It's a great shock. So much has happened to you tonight. But we'll get used to it after a bit—get used to being father and daughter."

He smiled again.

"We liked each other from the beginning, didn't we? I want to hear all about you, Karen. We've a lot of time to make up. Twenty years. But right now I think we should think of Brenda. We love her, both of us. And while we've forgiven her, she hasn't forgiven herself."

"She looked terrible," Karen said. "Yes, let's find her."

But Brenda had left the theater. They went directly to the apartment.

Sitting beside him in the car, unable to take her eyes from him, Karen asked. "Do you think she'll marry you now?"

"I asked her today. She didn't answer. I don't know how she went through the performance tonight. But I do, really. She's a real trouper."

* * *

His hand covered hers and he laughed quietly. "Why, you've come to me nearly famous! That's a handicap for any father—a famous daughter!"

But his expression was serious again. "I couldn't have asked for any one lovelier that you, Karen. Your foster-parents did a fine job. I want to know all about you. We'll go away together some time and you can tell me everything. Are you happy about this, Karen?"

Still she kept her eyes on him. Happy? She's scarcely knew what she felt.

But she said, "I couldn't have asked for or hoped for any one better or finer than you. Now I won't feel different from other people. Sometimes I'd forget and remember with a shock. And then I—I never had a real birthday."

"June seventeenth is your birthday."

Parking the car a block away from Brenda's apartment, they walked. She slipped her arm through his and suddenly felt very safe and happy. The feeling of safety was new. Even as a child she had felt she was drifting.

"Shall we tell people about this?" he asked. "I can't very well say I've kept you in hiding all these years. Of course we'll tell people! I want to boast and brag and show you off! But we'll have to give a slightly different version of the story to the public. We won't mention Brenda."

When he looked down at her, she looked up. "Yes . . . Father."

He had a queer strained look as if she had hurt him.

"That," he said, "sounds strange for you to say, I know, and stranger still for me to hear you say it."

Mrs. Reid opened the door of Brenda's apartment and left the room.
